Ground Is Giving Way

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Property owners whose homes have been heavily damaged by an earth slippage in the Broadmoor area of the North County were expected to soon file suit against at least a half-dozen separate government and private agencies.

Three property owners on Stoneyford Drive, and two others on 87th Street, have retained San Mateo attorney David Morgan to represent them in possible action against "everyone who can be connected to this matter," one property owner said Tuesday.

Mrs. Nancy Holmes, of 835 Stoneyford Drive, said this group would possibly include the Jefferson Elementary School District, California Watjler Company, City of Daly City, County of San Mateo, and the original developer — Stoneson Construction of San Francisco.

Stoneson developed the area back in 1948.

According to the engineer on the site, Edwin H. Smith, now city engineer for Colma, a manhole located on the Holmes property, and thought to be at least partially responsible for the earth slide which has thus far cuased a widowed homeowner to vacate her house at 839 Stoneyford, was not installed by the original developer.

Broadmoor is an enclave surrounded by Daly City. It is under the jurisdiction of the County.

JESD Seeks Ways To Curb Energy

Drastic cutbacks in busing of elementary grade school children and partial shutdown of the district cafeteria may become reality to cope with the growing energy crisis, the Jefferson Elementary School Board has been told.

Superintendent Keith Breon said Thursday his offices had received suggestions from State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles concerning possible ways of easing the energy drain at local schools.

These suggestions included: cutting the busing of children wherever possible; extending distances a child might walk to school; closing the school cafeteria for two or three days each week, and curtailing field trips and other off-campus activities.

Riles said he visualized a two-part effort by school districts during the current energy crisis:

"Employing all possible techniques throughout the education system to conserve energy, and seeking high priority fuel allocations for school needs based upon firm evidence that schools have implemented effective conservation programs.

"I firmly believe that for the sake of our children and on behalf of the state's interest in the education of those children, that it is absolutely essential that schools be maintained for at least 175 days each school year," Riles wrote in a memorandum to all school districts in the state.

Breon said that perhaps the school district could cut down on hot lunches and have children bring in cold lunches "two or three times a week."

He explained the cafeteria, with its ovens and other food preparation equipment, "is a big energy user."

But Chairwoman Dorothy Adams said she was not convinced that there really is an energy crisis.

She said she felt local bars, with their lighted exteriors, and night horse racing at Bay Meadows and Golden Gate Fields, should first be cut out before there is any curtailment of school activities.

In other action, the board directed Breon to spell out policy on school employes' participating in political campaigns.

Mrs. Adams said she did not want to infringe on anyone's rights to actively participate in any campaign, however she wanted it clearly understood it is against the State Education Code to use school property and equipment to endorse any candidate or bond issues.

There had been some dispute over last year's school district election when it was found two bulletins endorsing certain candidates had been drawn up using school material and equipment.

SSF Rezoning Action Is Delayed

Owners of some nine acres on South San Francisco's Spruce Ave. delayed rezoning of their land at Monday night's city council meeting.

It wasn't the rezoning itself that they objected to, they said, but the strip of land, 50 feet deep, situated on the back part of their properties, they would have to keep clear of any building.

The landowners clashed with residents of Fir Ave. in the Mayfair Village neighborhood, who wanted the 50-foot strip as a buffer zone between their backyards and adjacent commercial development.

The South San Francisco Planning Commission had recommended that the land be rezoned from apartments and commercial to PCM, planned commercial and light industrial district.

The vacant land is located on the west side of the street, between the Oroweat Bakery and the Colma Creek Canal. The street frontage is now zoned commercial; the rear is zoned for apartments.

Surenda Amin, assistant planner, reporting on how the matter arose, said one of the landowners had requested a subdivision of his land and creation of a short street to provide access to two future apartment lots.

Amin said it is poor planning to make the apartment dwellers drive onto a commercial street to get to their homes, so the planners initiated the rezoning to PCM, to have the entire area under a single zoning.

Among those protesting were a former mayor, Leo Ferko, and Bud Eschelbach of 791 Park Way.

Eschelbach, who owns three acres, complained that he had paid taxes on the land for 20 years and would be denied use of 15,000 square feet of property, which he valued at $45,000. He has inherited the land, he said, and must pay $1,800 inheritance tax on it. He pays $7,000 a year taxes on the land, he asserted.

Ferko said it was unfair to have to give up 50 feet, terming the procedure "inverse condemnation." He asked for another meeting with the planning commission.

"I want my investment to stay intact, too!" declared Mary Broderick, Fir Ave. homeowner. J. C. Brockerick offered to compromise on the 50 feet if the homeowners could have some guarantees on the height of the

Computer Fails; No Checks

A number of Daly City's elderly disabled have not received their monthly welfare checks this month due to a computer failure, the Daly City City Council was informed Monday.

Alice Gonzalez Kessler, Program Operations Director for the EOC, and Julius Castellan, a resident of the city, said persons needing financial assistance may call "Mr. Rippeto of the Welfare Dept." in San Francisco (573-2222) for information.

Partial aid is authorized under AB 134, Art. 2 (Emergency Payments), Mrs. Kessler said.

The checks may be delayed up to two weeks because of the mechanical failure, Castellan said.

He said some elderly persons in the city are in need of financial help now and "no one knows when these funds will be available to pay these people."

Castellan said "there should be a place (for them) to get information." He asked the council to immediately push to open the new Information and Referral Center on Mission Street.

City Manager David Rowe said the center would be open with a temporary staff, until a fulltime staff can be hired, Jan. 21.

Councilman McRobert Stewart explained persons needing assistance on purchase of food stamps and related information, may call the City Hall (992-4500 City Clerk's Office).

Injury Near BART Station

One of the last items of business discussed by the Daly City City Council last year was the amount of auto-pedestrian traffic around the Bay Area Rapid Transit station on John Daly Drive.

With commuters hurrying to either catch a train or returning home, and motorists likewise rushing to beat freeway traffic, there were fears voiced that the area might become another "blood alley."

A traffic study indicated that many pedestrians jaywalk to and from the BART station. And motorists fail to yield the right-of-way to persons crossing the thoroughfare.

Monday morning — on the first day of Daylight Saving Time — Lorena Mark, 42, of 261 Glenwood Drive, Daly City was on her way to the BART station to catch her train to work in downtown San Francisco about 7:30 a.m.

It was dark and raining, police officer Steve Aurilio noted. The road was very slippery.

Although the victim was in a crosswalk, the driver of a van truck, Paul Halprin, 22, of 64 Los Olivos Ave., Daly City, told police he failed to see the woman until it was too late.

She suffered head injuries, a broken right leg, fractured pelvis and multiple internal injuries and was rushed to Mary's Help Hospital where she was reported in serious condition today.

Exactly what can be done to prevent another such accident has not been determined by traffic studies, the city explained.

Installation of a wire mesh fence down the divider island in the center of the roadway would prevent jaywalkers and channel pedestrians to use the crosswalk to BART.

Another immediate measure the city might employ is the stationing of a traffic policeman in the area during rush commute hours, the city staff informed the council Monday.

LSSD Declining Enrollment

Now It's a Difficult Problem

The Laguna Salada School District — long plagued with problems of rapid growth — will be dealing with a different kind of problem tomorrow night.

The trustees will be asked by School Supt. James Brien to act on problems arising out of loss of more than 500 students expected when Laguna Salada schools open for the fall semester. Projected enrollment for then is 7,444 pupils. Current enrollment is 7,947 pupils. In October of 1970, when the enrollment decline began, there was a high of 9,016 pupils in school.

Under current state law, the district must eliminate 20 jobs, including those for 18 classroom teachers, a music teacher and a psychologist. Making the problem tougher is the fact that 16 classroom teachers are on leave, and have rights to return to their jobs.

All this comes, despite the fact, Brien said, that Laguna Salada has virtually the biggest classes in San Mateo County, coupled with an increasing number of empty classrooms.

Brien said the district might not get any relief this year from SB 90, which purports to improve the lot of the low wealth districts, year-by-year.

Laguna Salada will receive $193,000 less from the state, he wrote the trustees, because of the loss of 500 pupils.

Several other major matters of interest will be considered by the trustees.

The Cafeteria Study Committee has recommended that the district offer an expanded snack program for the seventh and eighth grade schools, in addition to the Type A conventional school lunches, and that the schools currently offering the limited snack program be allowed to continue.

The committee stated it believed that this program would be in accord with the students' desires, and would make more money.

It is suggesting burritos, hamburgers, pizzas, hot dogs and tacos, for 30 cents; tuna, ham and chicken salad sandwiches for 30 cents; chips, fruit, pastries, fruit drinks for a dime, and 15-cent milk shakes.

Bids will be awarded for reconstruction of areas damaged by fire at San Andreas.

Possible Flu Death Is Under Study

There is no evidence yet that a newstrain of flu virus called "Hong Kong Type B" that has appeared in this country was the cause of death of a Daly City - Broadmoor area woman Dec. 7.

The new strain was discovered in routine throat cultures taken fromn the two sons, ages 9 and 10, of the dead woman, the same day at the hospital, but not in her husband, according to Dr. James M. Bodie, health division director of the county Health and Welfare Department.

The National Center for Disease Control announced Friday that Type B had been found in several parts of the country, but that the two San Francisco boys were the only known cases in this part of the country.

There are two strains of virus now circulating, the NCDC said. Type A is the London Flu of last year. Type B is more unpredictable and can occur in spot epidemics.

Bodie said both types will run their course in 5 or 6 days and that B is milder. Both the South San Francisco boys are fine now, he said.

He declined to name the family, as is customary in this type of case. The mother had been rushed to a hospital Dec. 7 but died almost immediately after arrival of what was diagnosed as massive pneumonia. Routine throat swabbings of the rest of the family followed, Bodie said.

Specimens of the lung and blood taken during the autopsy are now at the state Department of Public Health laboratory in Berkeley for pathology testing, Bodie said, but "We have nothing pointing to the flu virus as the cause of death."

"I don't know where the boys got it," Bodie said, adding "The only cases we've had before in this country were in travelers. These boys hadn't been out of the country."

There has been no epidemic of either flu strain in the county yet, Bodie said, but with school resuming today after the holidays, time will tell. "Schools are our best and earliest indicator of epidemics," Bodie said, when normal 6-8 per cent absenteeism goes to 20-25 per cent.

It was not flu but an outbreak of gastroenteritis that caused early closing of Cipriani School in Belmont Dec. 21. Bodie said. That was the Flu is probably the most holidays anyway, but illness and absenteeism forced closure before noon.

Flu eis probably the most contagious of all diseases, Bodie said, recalling the London Flu epidemics of last year in this county, which was believed responsible for 35 deaths, mainly in older people.

Symptoms of both strains of flue are a sore throat, low-grade fever, muscle aches in the back and limbs and perhaps a cough, Bodie said.

The Mud Slide

ALTHOUGH SNOW blanketed much of Southern San Mateo County Thursday, producing blizzard conditions in some parts, heavy rain pelted the North County causing a mud slide on Interstate 280. The slide closed two southbound lanes for several hours near Westborough Boulevard, South San Francisco (above), and workmen were called in to clear the mud from the road (left). On Thursday, some snow was reported in Pacifica along Skyline Boulevard after 8 a.m., but it reportedly melted as soon as it hit the ground.

Meeting on Top of the Water

Eyeing the BART Ceremonies

It could be another 10 months before the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's trans-bay tube is opened but the ceremony-hungry politicians are already eyeing the light at the end of the tunnel.

Apparently not being able to contain their enthusiasm any longer San Francisco, Daly City, and East Bay cities are already mapping plans to shake hands on the opening of the transbay tube linking east and west in mid-Bay.

And while the ceremonies as they stand now call for meeting each other halfway across the Bay the representatives will be on top of the water — not under it inside the trans-bay tube.

There has, thus far, been no explanation for this unusual turn of events, except perhaps to point up the progress cross-bay transportation has made in the past half-century.

Some observers feel if this is what officials want to prove — that modern man has made giant strides in the past 50 years or so — then why not meet halfway across the Bay Bridge, on Buena Vista Island?

Instead, the officialdom of Daly City and San Francisco will be floated out on what is currently called "a couple of historic vessels."

It was understood one of these "historic vessels" is a never used barge from ages past (for San Francisco and Daly City), while East Bay representatives will offer their mid-Bay greetings while lumbering aboard an old ferry boat.

As one critic of the Rapid Transit system remarked during a recent briefing on the matter: "They'll probably have to tow the ships, just like they do the BART trains."

BART officials on the other hand, do not want complete control of the ceremonies to go to the cities, as they did at the opening of the San Francisco-Daly City line.

They complained that in the case of the Daly City station opening only 75 ducats were handed out to "dignitaries" for the lunch at the city's War Memorial Building. Some 400 persons attended the lunch.

One BART director said during a recent meeting on the subject that he knew there was a considerable number of other dignitaries that should have attended the luncheon.

However, BART's public information committee has instructed its staff to cooperate fully with communities and organizations wishing to participate in the tube opening ceremonies.

"Before any tangible plans begin to take shape, and before any irreversible commitments are made, the staff feels the district should state its intent regarding the development of any future planning for tube opening activities," a memorandum handed into the BART board stated this week.

In other action, the BART board has considered a proposal by Transportation Displays, Inc. to provide, install and service an average of six clocks per station on the BART line.

This project could bring in additional revenues of $53,000 annually, it was noted.

Presently there are no clocks on either the concourse or platform areas of stations.

JESD Discusses Name Changes

What's in a name?

For one thing, a lot of memories.

For another, quite a few emotions — especially if you try to change them around after having become accustomed to them over the years.

Last Wednesday, trustees of the Jefferson Elementary School District, after receipt of suggestions from some students, parents and school teachers, discussed the idea of changing around three school names.

For example: Fernando Rivera, which is slated to be turned into a K-6 facility from a junior high school, would be retitled "Abraham Lincoln."

And the reason Abraham Lincoln's name would be given to Fernando Rivera is because that school would be then called Thomas Edison, which would, in turn be renamed Fernando Rivera.

The idea of shifting classes came about two months ago when it was determined by trustees and administration of the JESD that class size, student population residency and availability of classroom space dictated the need for such transfers of students and teachers.

Dr. Vin Stratton, noting he was taking a "middle line" on the issue, pointed out that some students, faculty and even parents don't mind making the move to new quarters, but they want to take their school name along with them.

Daly City Man Killed In Hold Up Attempt

An escaped convict and his girl friend, wanted in connection with the slaying of Daly City grocer Anthony P. Cala and the holdup of several Bay Area food stores, were charged with murder in Placerville Sunday.

Van Wesley Purcell, 29, and Lynn Southhall, 19, were apprehended at a Placerville motel following an all-points bulletin issued earlier last week.

Purcell is also wanted by Daly City Police for questioning in the robbery of a local supermarket two weeks ago.

*****

Anthony P. Cala, a Daly City resident and manager of the Cala Food Store in the Sunset District of San Francisco, was shot to death Wednesday night in his store by a would-be robber.

The 42-year-old member of the family that owns the Cala Food chain in San Francisco died instantly from two bullet wounds in the temple and shoulder.

According to police, a young man, described by witnesses as slightly built with shoulder-length blond hair, came up to Cala as he sat at his desk near the front of the store. The assailant brandished a gun and demanded that Cala fill grocery bags with money from the safe.

But as Cala moved toward the safe he allegedly turned around and attempted to knock the gun out of the man's hand. Two shots then rang out and Cala fell to the floor with bullet holes in his left temple and left shoulder.

Police reported that the robber immediately ran to a car where an accomplice was waiting. He escaped with no money.

The Cala stores, one of ten in the chain, was closed for the night following the slaying. Cala had been manager of the store for the past year.

County Studying Mass Transit

There are three transit studies being conducted within San Mateo County, including the San Francisco Airport Access Project completed in 1971.

The San Mateo County Transit Development Project and the San Mateo County Local Bus studies have been 90 per cent and 60 per cent (respectively) completed.

Of these three, two concern themselves with a mass transit system, like BART. The local bus study, however, is intended to outline the means for implementing countywide local bus service as soon as possible.

It was this urgent need for a local bus service that prompted the speedy pursuit of enabling legislation that would establish a central transit authority.

According to Jim Fales, city manager for Redwood City and chairman of the Managers' Advisory Committee of Transit Studies, it would be nearly impossible to provide a bus service on a coordinated countywide basis without a central transit authority.

Fales Thursday night explained this position at the joint meeting in Pacifica of the North County Council of Cities and the San Mateo County Council of Mayors.

Both bodies at that meeting subsequently voted unanimously to seek enabling legislation to establish such a central transit authority, without spelling out specifics.

Fales said a transit district will provide the necessary agency with legal powers to provide countywide public transportation service.

According to Fales, in order for the County Clerk to place the issue on the ballot, the enabling legislation has to be approved by the state at least 90 days prior to the election.

He said that under ideal conditions, it may take one-half to two and one-half months for a bill to gain legislative approval.

Therefore, according to Fales, a transit district bill would have to be introduced early in 1974 to have even a slim chance of making the June 1974 ballot.

Fales said that a transit district should not be limited as to what type of transit service it may provide, "although the fear of a BART extension may be alleviated by specifying in the District Act that BART could not be constructed without a vote."

It was pointed out by Fales that if the enabling legislation does not clear the legislature by March 1, 1974, an election would defer to November of 1974, eliminating the possibility for federal or Transit Development Act funding in 1974-75.

Further, according to Fales, a defeat at the polls will leave San Mateo County with no transit authority and the prospect of waiting several years for another attempt.

Funds Sought for County Transit District

By BOB PETERSON
Staff Writer

A joint meeting of the North County Council of Cities and San Mateo County Council of Mayors in Pacifica Thursday resulted in a resolution of intent to seek enabling legislation for the purpose of establishing a transit authority board within the county.

On a motion by Pacifica Mayor Aubrey Lumley, the two bodies also unanimously agreed that such a board should be comprised of nine representatives: three city, three county and three members of the public.

In addition, the motion called for appropriate taxing authority — excluding the use of property taxes — for the transit authority board and stipulated that the entire proposal be placed on the ballot for voter approval.

The action was taken initially by the San Mateo County Council of Mayors and ratified by the North County Council of Cities in a separate motion.

The meeting at Nick's Rockaway Restaurant was also attended by several members of the County Board of Supervisors and Assemblyman Lou Papan and State Senator Arlen Gregorio.

A DRAFT resolution had first called for a one-half per cent sales tax on gasoline purchases as a means to finance the operations and administration of the transit authority board.

Senator Gregorio, however, indicated that such a proposal would not be proper. He said it would be necessary to impose an "across the board" sales tax.

Although it was apparent that everyone present agreed a rapid transit authority was a necessity for the county, there was some debate as to whether this adopted resolution was a case of moving too fast.

Pacifica Councilman Stan Farber, in particular, questioned the judgment of asking for legislation "before we know where we're going."

Burlingame Councilman Dave Martin shared Farber's concern. "This (hurried resolution adoption) is one of the finest railroad jobs I've seen," he said.

"I think that to try to send it through with as little information available at this minute is crazy. If you want the consensus of 19 cities, this isn't the way to get it," said Martin, who qualified his statements by saying he, like the others, acknowledged the need for such a transit authority in the county.

SAN CARLOS Mayor Tom Jenkins was the first to respond to this viewpoint. Aiming his comments initially at Farber, he said, "that's one of the problems (in this county). We always want the i's dotted and the t's crossed. We're the only group in the urban area without rapid transit. Small time politics," he said, "requires that we've got to have it layed out. All that's involved (in the resolution) is enabling authority to move ahead and do the plan."

San Bruno Mayor Marge Kozkowski said that "if every city has to know where the bus will stop, we'll all be in trouble."

An Expert Explains Causes of Inflation

Announcer: Today we have Professor Fuzzi Wuzzi, noted economist. Renowned on campus and in business and government, the Professor has written several autoritative books, including his masterwork: "Inflation Means Higher Prices." Tell us, Professor, how do things look?

Fuzzi: Why do you ask such questions?

Announcer: Today we would like to concentrate on your specialty, inflation. What was the rate of inflation during the past year?

Fuzzi: More than nine per cent.

Announcer: One year ago you predicted a two per cent rise during 1973. How do you explain the difference?

Fuzzi: There was more inflation than I predicted.

Announcer: Are you able to explain?

Fuzzi: Yes. The curve of costs and prices rose at a higher rate than we expected.

Announcer: Why?

Fuzzi: Because the costs of goods and services rose more . . .

Announcer (interrupting): But we are interested in what caused the rise.

Fuzzi: I didn't want to make this too complicated for our audience.

Announcer: I think they understand much more than you think. From this interview they will believe that you, one of the nation's leading economists, don't know what's going on.

Fuzzi: Well, we can't risk that can we? Last year's high rate of inflation was caused by a variety of factors with which we are familiar, and some with which we are not familiar. Taken together, these, and other forces combined to bring about what happened.

Announcer: What was the role of the factors with which you are familiar?

Fuzzi: Perhaps money supply, aggregate demand, and the supply of labor considered together, or singly, were most influential. But the effect of bottlenecks, expectations, and availability of raw materials cannot be disregarded. Then again, controls, or maybe fear of controls was the key. Certainly, in all likelihood, labor and oligopolic power carried crucial force. Employment and unemployment affected matters, and it may be that the devalued and depreciated dollar was most vital. Not to be forgotten is the failure of government to increase taxes. Oh yes, interest rates may have done it. And what about strong demand at home and prosperity abroad? Push and pull both played a role. All this is clear.

Announcer: And what are the factors with which you are not familiar?

Fuzzi: As we are not familiar with them we do not know what they are.

Announcer: How many such factors are there?

Fuzzi: Four or five, probably five.

Announcer: Are there other estimates?

Fuzzi: Oh, yes, there is a variety of opinion, ranging from one unknown to over a hundred. The next most authoritative opinion is that of Joe D. Ranged of the Biggie Bond House. He has written that there are 60 such unknowns.

Announcer: With such a wide spread of estimates why do you select his as most like yours?

Fuzzi: Similarity of method. We both applied New Traditional Economic Theory to the problem. Its very nebulousness makes it best to use with unknowns.

Announcer: You also mentioned other forces. How many of these were involved?

Fuzzi: We've been so busy debating the number of "unknown factors" that the matter of "other forces" has yet to be resolved.

Announcer: Now, could you summarize the causes of last year's rise in prices and costs?

Fuzzi: I believe I have already fully explained what occurred.

Announcer: You work for private clients as well as with the government?

Fuzzi: Yes, I am a consultant for a number of the nation's larger companies. I also write a confidential weekly newsletter.

Announcer: In light of what happened last year, what about your own services.

Fuzzi: My fees and the cost of my newsletter will rise.

Announcer: But . . .

Fuzzi: Don't know that the cost of everything has gone up?

Announcer: Before we close, I would like to return to one matter you mentioned. When did you decide that there were precisely four or five unknown factors contributing to inflation?

Fuzzi: About a month ago while taking a bath.

Announcer: And what happened to your clients last year?

Fuzzi: They took a bath.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped. But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. Adv

Leche League Slates Meet

La Leche League will hold an open discussion on prepared childbirth, the early days of breastfeeding and how the new, breastfed baby fits in with the rest of the family at a meeting Jan. 10 at 1142 Mason Drive, Pacifica at 8 p.m.

For details call 355-6670.

Odd Encounter With Robbers

A 22-year-old Pacifica man reported to a sheriff's deputy that he threw one of three men who tried to rob him over a cliff south of Devil's Slide yesterday.

James M. Martin, 22, a shipping clerk of 315 Heathcliff Drive, told Deputy Sheriff Don Wright a story of the trio trying to rob him three times after picking him up while he was hitchhiking on Cabrillo Highway.

Wright said Martin gave him this account:

The three men, one described as an Indian and the other two as white, first picked him up at 9 a.m. at the Canada Cove intersection near Pacifica. The driver, however, turned off on a dirt road leading to the top of San Pedro Mountain. Martin became scared and jumped out and ran back to the highway.

The three, all of whom had been drinking, followed him, however, and convinced him they meant no harm. He got back into the car.

As they drove north on the highway, however, the driver made a sudden U-turn at the "Nude Beach" parking lot and returned to the dirt road. Martin jumped out again, this time with a soft drink bottle in his hand. He said he fought with two of the men, suffering a split lip, until the third broke up the fight, and the men again convinced him they would drive him home.

At the first turnoff south of Devil's Slide, the car stopped, and two of the men demanded money. During a struggle, he managed to wrestle one over the cliff. As the man's companions went to his aide, Martin ran for help, but the trio approached him once more and apologized and offered him a ride to Pacifica.

The men finally let him off at Linda Mar, and he called Pacifica police.

Wright, in an attempt to trace the course of the men up the dirt road, became stuck and had to radio for a tow truck to free his patrol car.

A radio broadcast was put out for the three men including one "bruised Indian."

Wright said a witness earlier reported seeing three men struggling at the turnoff.

Pay Hikes OKd for Key SSF Employes

New pay increases — some ranging up to 12½ per cent — became effective for about a score of South San Francisco city employes on New Year's Day.

Employes affected are mainly department or division heads, and other key officials. Most of them shared in the five per cent cost of living increases granted June 1.

City Manager Ed Alario explained that the pay increases were granted by the council as a result of a survey of comparable cities. Also taken into account were current responsibilities of each position.

Such increases are necessary, Alario said, in order to obtain and to hold the qualified executives that the city needs. In addition, a few posts, such as director of recreation and the librarian, are often paid lower than they should be in view of the responsibilities involved.

The top position affected was Director of Parks and Recreation, up 7½ per cent to a new range of $16,827-$20,454 per year. Each salary range has five steps. New officials may be appointed at any step; those starting at the bottom step take no more than 3½ years to reach the top pay in that range.

Other department heads included the director of administrative services and finance — a new post for which Alario pledged to obtain a top man — up 5 per cent to a range of $19,514 to $23,719 — and the library administrator, up 2½ per cent to a top pay of $20,964.

Middle management pay increases included:

— Assistant fire chief and the three police captains, up 2½ per cent to a top pay of $19,955.

— Police lieutenant and fire battalion chief, up 2½ per cent to a top pay of $18,530.

— Park superintendent, 7½ per cent higher, to a top pay of $16,380.

— Harbor superintendent, 2½ per cent raise to a top pay of $15,589.

— Purchasing officer, 12½ per cent, to a top pay of $13,112.

— Chief building inspector, 2½ per cent hike to a top pay of $19,468. This position is currently vacant, but one of the current building inspectors is slated to be appointed.

— Superintendent of sanitation, up 2½ per cent to a top pay of $19,468.

— Superintendent of public works; 2½ per cent increase to a top pay of $19,955.

Residents May Sue Over Slide

(Cont. From Page 1)

Sid Cantwell, whose crews have been working to clean out pipes leading into, and going out of, the "mystery manhole" since last Saturday, likewise disowns the manhole.

Property owners affected by the slide blame the manhole for their troubles.

They say it was put in for a reason, and that the reason was simply to collect underground water and channel it into a storm drain system nearby.

Where the piping is laid remains unknown.

It is known that the area has a history of slides, apparently touched off by the numerous underground springs in the area.

Farmers once used the area as a source of water to irrigate their truck gardens, according to longtime residents of the city.

Cantwell said he thinks the manhole was put in by the original developer, or before.

Some of Cantwell's men talked to a former owner of one of the affected homes who lived there from 1958 to 1968. This former owner said the manhole — located on the John Holmes property — was there then.

Above the three homes, where backyards have crumbled away and large chunks of concrete that once were patios have fallen several feet below the previous ground level, is a large water tank owned by the California Water Company.

An engineer, who asked not to be identified, said it was not likely any leakage of the magnitude that might have triggered the earth slide could have been generated by this tank.

An overflow from the tank is connected into the normal storm drain, it was understood.

Some 10 years ago, the Vista Mar School, located above the properties, sustained a massive slide that eventually cost the Jefferson Elementary School District some $250,000 to repair and for a time endangered homes in the area below.

Engineer on that project was Joseph Kaplan.

Kaplan visited the Stoneyford slide area Sunday and said he is convinced the manhole and any drains into it do not originate from the Vista Mar School area.

Cantwell added that the pipe and manhole are not installed by the county.

The slide began almost two weeks ago.

By New Year's Day, Mrs. Jean Heikel was forced to leave her home at 839 Stoneyford when the backyard caved in and a rear bedroom threatened to fall into the crevice.

PG&E turned off all power to the home on Thursday.

Main complaint of many residents of the involved neighborhood was the lack of interest in aiding the community by the county, under whose jurisdiction Broadmoor falls.

First on the scene New Year's Day was North San Mateo Sanitation District Directors Bud Lycett and Tony Giammona.

Both are also Daly City City Councilmen.

Along with Lycett and Giammona was Engineering Consultant Robert Bernicchi and Sanitation Dist. Manager David Gehre.

"We immediately determined the manhole was not a sewage drain and attempted to evaluate on our maps where the drain came from," Gehre said.

But the district's maps, like every other map of the development, failed to reveal who, why or when the pipes and manhole were put in.

Later on New Year's Day, County Supervisor Bob St. Clair inspected the site and immediately instructed the county staff to begin investigating the manhole matter.

Eventually, the county decided to enter the private property and began checking the manhole and pipe system.

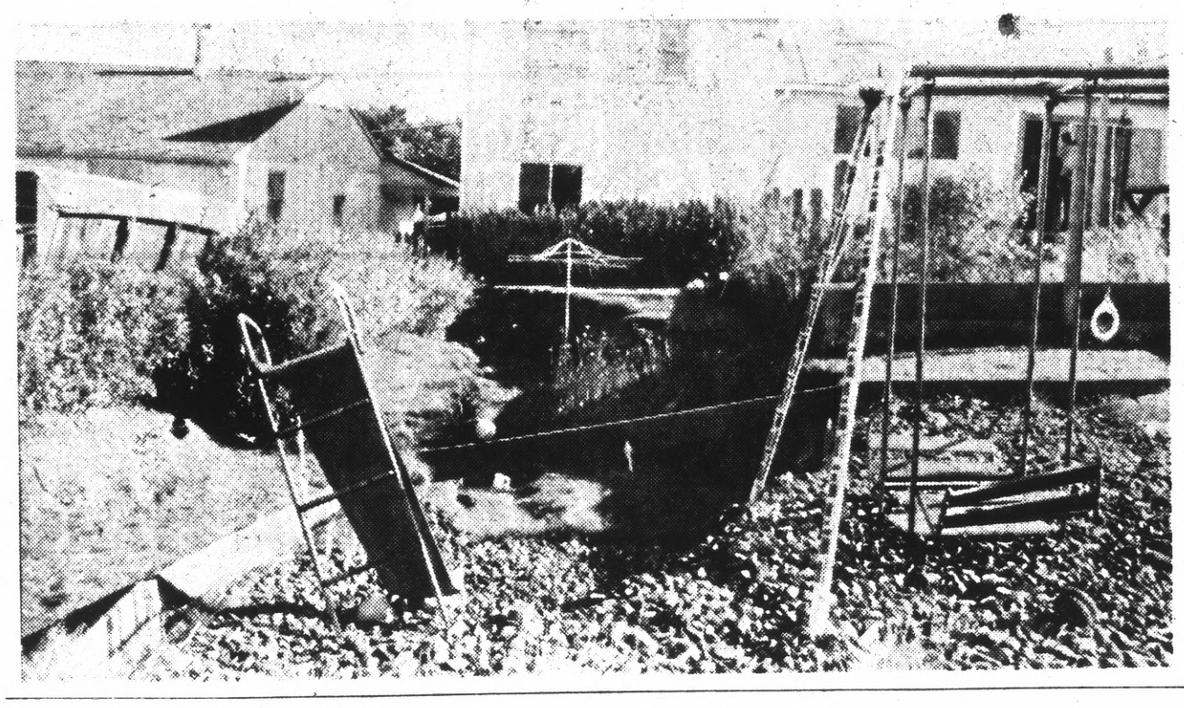
They found, according to Cantwell, the pipe connected to the manhole zigzags under parts of the homes in the area and, therefore, must have been put in by the original developer, or before construction.

Otherwise, Cantwell contends, a considerable amount of expense would have been incurred by laying the pipe after the homes were built.

Meanwhile, the slide has stabilized somewhat, residents said.

If the rains come again property owners, whose homes are slipping, and those homes below now being threatened by the slide, fear they will lose everything.

None have insurance that covers this sort of catastrophe.



DAMAGE due to sliding ground in Broadmoor is depicted in photos taken by Post Photographer George Brooke. At right, a swing set sits destroyed in a pile of rubble, and, above, a fence is shown pulled away from the house due to cracking of its concrete foundation. Below ground has dropped several feet at the rear of a Broadmoor home.

Thank goodness the miserable storm that struck the middle of last week made its appearance following the busy holiday season. However, the wet and icy atmosphere has succeeded in putting a damper on early 1974 activities. Somehow the cozy fireplace at home seems more enticing than an evening out when the rains are so heavy and the temperature so cold!

Members of the Holy Angels Guild are hoping for clear skies and slightly warmer weather this weekend as they have a dinner planned Saturday evening.

Members of the guild braved the frosty air last Wednesday evening, and gathered for a regular business meeting and a planning session for the forthcoming dinner.

"Dinner is Served" is to be a promotional event designed to raise money for the guild's spring fashion show and Mrs. Beverly Pawelson, publicity chairman for the guild, reports that the fashion show committee is eager for a large turn out on Saturday to help underwrite the cost of presenting the fashion show.

Tickets are now on sale for the dinner, and they may be purchased from guild members for only $2 per person.

REMIND YOUR favorite Girl Scout, Cadet or Brownie that the Girl Scout swimming schedule resumes tomorrow evening — rain, snow or shine!

For the adult scouters, the regular meeting for local liaison officers will be Jan. 17, at 10 a.m. in Hope Lutheran Church.

And, for the rest of us, Mrs. Roz Marino, reminds us, this is the season to eat Girl Scout Cookies — buy some from your favorite Girl Scout today. As in the past few years, we have a choice of four flavors, lemon cream, shortbread wafers, mints and peanut butter, so there should be something each of us can enjoy.

MRS. WILLIAM SCHOU, publicity director for the Westlake Catholic Women, notes that Feb. 2 is the date which has been selected for the 20th annual fashion show-luncheon to be sponsored by the women of Our Lady of Mercy parish.

"Venetian Holiday" is the theme chosen for this very special anniversary of one of the North Peninsula's traditional events.

Mrs. Peter Balestrieri is chairing the anniversary celebration and co-chairing the planning is Mrs. James McCann. They, along with members of the fashion show committee, have been working several months to assure that this event will be spectacular. As in the past, the show will be held in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel and the committee members are puzzling over ways to stretch the walls a bit. The 1973 edition of the show filled the room, and since this year marks a special occassion everyone on the committee is sure that there will be many former members who will be anxious to make the date one for an informal "reunion" of former parishioners and past fashion show committee people.

The best advice seems to be, buy your tickets early, the room still only seats 1200!

Though it seems there will be no need for special inducements to encourage attendance or support of the "Venetian Holiday," the committee has secured several prizes to be awarded during the afternoon. Some fortunate guest will receive $250, or a portable television or a trip to Disneyland for two!

CUB SCOUT leaders who may have missed the first of three training sessions being held at Temple Methodist Church, 1111 Junipero Serra Blvd., are urged to be on hand for the next two conclaves.

Ray Sutliff, Serra district executive director, reports that the next meeting will be held on Monday at 7 p.m., and it is open to all cub masters, den leaders, Webelos leaders and committee people as well as parents.

There is a $1 registration fee which covers the cost of the entire program.

IT WAS THE first time on "center stage" for a number of Peninsula Children who took part in a holiday program presented by nursery school children at Lakeside Presbyterian Church Nursery school.

A JAUNT IN a gondola for Mrs. Peter Balestrieri (left) and Mrs. James McCann completes their plans for "Venetian Holiday" the 20th annual fashion show and luncheon sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women. The event has been scheduled Feb. 2 in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco. Fashions will be presented by Livingston's of Grant Avenue and Stonestown and will be modeled by the Westlake Catholic Women. All proceeds of the day will benefit Our Lady of Mercy building fund.

Eureka Opens Branch in SSF

Kenneth L. Kidwell, President of Eureka Federal Savings, announced that the Association's South San Francisco branch opened for business Dec. 28. This is Eureka's eighteenth branch office and fifth in San Mateo County.

Kidwell also announced the appointment of Robert R. Daly, Assistant Vice President as Manager of the new South San Francisco office. Daly has over 13 years experience in the Savings and Loan industry with Eureka Federal Savings.

He is a native of San Francisco and currently resides in Pacifica with his wife and four children. Daly is active in professional and community affairs and is currently President of the San Francisco Chapter of the American Savings and Loan Institute.

Eureka's new office is located at 40 Chestnut Ave. in the Chestnut Plaza Shopping Center near the intersection of El Camino Real and Chestnut Avenue.

The spacious 4,000 sq. ft. branch facility will provide South San Francisco area residents with many free extra financial services including safe deposit boxes, checking accounts and travelers checks.

OLA Officers Are Installed

New officers of Our Lady of Angels Branch of the Italian Catholic Federation were installed Jan. 5 when the group met at Holy Angels Church in Colma. Mass at 3:30 p.m. was followed by a Grand Ball at the Elks Club in South San Francisco.

Mrs. Sam Marenco of Burlingame was elected the new president. She and her fellow officers were seated by Peter Bonino of Los Angeles, grand president of the ICF, who was assisted by Ario Gregori, a member of the Central ICF Council.

Other board members were Frank Cistulli, first vice president; Sam Marenco, second vice president; Lydia Maffei, recording secretary. A. M. Fenili, corresponding secretary; Jeanne Peterson, financial secretary; Mrs. Pietro Mezzetta, treasurer; and Mrs. Ellen Pors, orator.

Freight Shipping

The Westmoor Adult School, 131 Westmoor Ave., Daly City, will offer a course in Freight Shipping Supervision via common and contract carriers Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9:45 p.m. starting Jan. 8.

This is an introductory shipping course via motor carriage with some discussion via other modes of transportation for supervisors or potential supervisors.

The course will cover carrier organizational structure, government regulations, bills of lading, damage claims, service requirements, correct freight classification ratings and some classification rules. Intrastate California general freight rates will be covered.

Aim of the course is to give the beginning student a better understanding of freight transportation, how to obtain lower shipping charges and best service possible.

Those interested should attend the first session in Room 25 on Jan. 8. Registration will be open until Jan. 15.

Daly City Winter Ballet Is 'Huge Success'

The Winter Ballet — 1973 presented by the Daly City Civic Ballet, sponsored by the Recreation Department, and performed at Serramonte High School Dec. 14-15, was a success, according to sponsors.

The girls performed as if professionals. During one scene, a light cover above the stage fell startling the audience. However, 8-year-old Francine Torres, performing a solo as Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm, continued her dance as if nothing had happened. In another scene Annamarie Brizuela and Nannette Vides lost their mophead wigs, tossed them off stage and continued their dance smiling all the time.

Diane Roberts, dance director, performed the Dying Swan dressed in a costume of many white feathers.

A surprise after the performance was the presentation of carnations to the Board of Directors, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Robert Brizuela, Mrs. Andrew Baumann, Mrs. George Frenkel, Mrs. Vincent Rigoni and Mrs. Richard Torres. Miss Roberts presented the gift.

Lung Tests To be Offered

Health check ups to give early warning of lung diseases will be available to the public today in Daly City.

The mobile unit of the Lung Association of San Mateo County will be in operation from noon until 2 p.m. and 2:30 to 6 p.m., at El Rancho Market on Geneva Avenue.

No advance appointment is needed.

Breathing tests will be offered as well as chest X-rays.

The X-ray process is primarily for persons over 45, or for those who smoke. Christmas seal contributions defray some of the costs. To help cover the remainder, there is a $2 service fee for each test.

Spindrift Tryouts Set

The Pacifica Spindrift Players announced last week tryouts will be held for their next production, George Kelly's "Craig's Wife." The cast for this drama calls for five men and six women.

This Pulitzer Prize winning play is a tense and biting satire on human nature. All roles are subject to the Players usual open casting.

Tryouts will be held at Oddstad Park Center, 1000 block of Crespi Drive, Pacifica, Jan. 10 from 7:30-10 p.m.

For details contact the director Robert Southworth at 355-6735.

Health for People

By Keevin Davis and Carmen Olivares

The following is an excerpt from a speech by Clifford Allen, Assistant Director for the Bureau of Health Education Manpower, H.E.W., given to the Health Professions Council of California.

To set the framework for my talk, I'd like to start with some general observations. The Nation entered the decade of the Seventies with a great many things in black ink on the plus side of the ledger in the health field. The health status of the people was better than ever before, as measured by indicators such as infant mortality, longevity, and annual days of disability. Our health care resources had expanded in the Sixties. Health manpower had increased by 90 per cent and the physician supply alone had increased 34 per cent.

Health manpower supply and hospital facilties had both increased at a rate far greater than the population increase. Research and effective implementation of the results of that research had virtually eliminated several of the diseases which had been cripplers and killers.

But red ink was also in evidence on the health care ledger. And red ink was defining problems which must be tackled and solved in the Seventies. The advantageous health status was not a universal condition — some racial and ethnic minorities, some occupational groups, and the poor in a large mearsure, were not sharing in it. The Nation did not measure up too well in comparison with other countries when the same indicators of health status were used. As many of these nations did not have such advantageous ratios of manpower and facilities to population.

The proportion of physicians providing primary health care had been declining in favor of the specialists and the red ink wrote large and bold when the geographic distribution of health manpower and health facilities were entered into the ledger. There were and still are great discrepancies among the states and within individual States.

The economics of health care — the particular subject you have asked me to address — is a knotty problem and somewhat removed from our day to day activities in health manpower. I can group the factors affecting the economics of health care into three general areas: the organization of services, the financing of the services, and medical costs. And these factors are interrelated with and affected by other factors involved in the delivery of health care. They are not independent of the Nation's general economic status.

ORGANIZATION OF SERVICES

Evidence that we are making poor use of our health care resources has been accumulating for some time. It has been amply demonstrated that one chairside assistant, efficiently used, increases a dentist's productivity by 50 per cent. Probably 75 per cent of the pediatric tasks performed by a physician could be done by a properly trained child health assistant. Although patient and professional satisfactions have been rated highest when registered, nurses devote most of their time to patient care, nurses in hospitals spend only about 35 per cent of their time this way and nurses in physicians' offices spend even less time on the care of patients.

In every study of the utilization of health care facilities, one finds varying percentages of patients who should be using more appropriate facilities — patients who would actually benefit from less costly facilities. Because comprehensive health planning has been too little or too late or both in some communities, too many hospitals maintain expensive facilities that are rarely used. These facilities are not only bad economics, they can be bad care. Underused, yet highly specialized equipment, can pose a risk to the occasional patient because it had deteriorated or the knowledgeable staff is not available to supervise its use.

The extent to which health care resources are poorly utilized throughout the Nation has not been measured, nor have the costs of mismanagement been calculated. However, according to Secretary Richardson, just a 10 per cent improvement in efficiency would yield a saving of more than $5 billion.

Lo siguiente es parte de una presentacion dada por Clifford Allen, Asistente al Director del Bureau of Health Education Manpower, H.E.W., al Health Professions Council de California.

Como introduccion para este relato, quisiera comenzar con unas observaciones generales. La Nacion comenzo el decenio de las Setentas con muchas cosas escritas en tinta negra al lado positivo del libro mayor del campo de salud. El estado de salud de la populacion se hallaba en mejores condiciones que en cualquier otro tiempo al medirlo segun ciertas indicaciones como; mortalidad en infantes, ancianidad, y dias anuales de inhabilidad. Nuestros recursos en el cuidado de salud habian desarrollado en los Sesentas. La mano de obra en el campo de salud habia aumentado por 90% y solo el numero de doctores habia aumentado 34%.

El proveeo de la mano de obra en el campo de salud y los recursos en los hospitales ambos habian desarrollado segun una proporcion mucho mas grande que el desarrollo de la populacion. Estudios y la implementacion eficaz de los resultados de estos estudios casi habian eliminado muchas de esas enfermedades que en el pasado habian sido paralizantes y fatales.

Pero tambien estaba evidente la tinta roja en el campo de salud. Y la tinta roja llamaba atencion a todos los problemas que tendrian que ser atacados y resueltos en los Setentas. El estado favorable de salud no era una condicion universal — algunas minorias etnicas, ciertos grupos de trabajadores, y los pobres en gran cantidad no gozaban de ello. La Nacion no lucia muy bien al comprarla con otros paises, especialmente cuando los mismos indicadores de estado de salud se usaban en ambos estudios, ya que muchas de las otras naciones no gozaban de proporciones tan favorables de mano de obra y facilidadades medicas segun populacion.

La proporcion de medicos ofreciendo cuidado de salud primario habia disminuido a favor de los especialistas — y la tinta roja se mostraba recia y ardiente cuando la distribucion de la mano de obra en el campo de salud y facilidades disponibles se introducian en el libro. Existian — todavia existen — muchos desacuerdos en el Estado y entre los diferentes Estados.

La economia del cuidado de salud — el tema particular acerca de cual Uds. me han pedido que hable — es un problema muy complejo y poco evidente en nuestras actividades diaras del campo de salud. Puedo agrupar todos los factores afectando la economia del cuidado de salud en tres diferentes areas generales: la organizacion de los servicios, la financia de estos servicios, y el costo medico. Estos factgres estan interrelacionados con y afectados por otros factores cuales estan envueltos en la rendicion del cuidado de salud. Ellos no estan independientes del estado general economico de la Nacion.

ORGANIZACION DE SERVICIOS

Pruebas que nosotros estamos haciendo mal uso de nuestros recursos en el campo de cuidado de salud se ha estado acumulando por mucho tiempo. Ha sido demostrado claramente que un asistente usado eficazmente, aumenta la productividad del dentista por 50%. Probablemente 75% de las tareas pediatricas ejecutadas por un medico pudieran ser hechas por un asistente en el campo de cuidado de salud de ninos, si este fuese bien instruido. Aunque la satisfaccion en los clientes y profesionales ha sido medida mas favorable cuando las enfermeras registradas devotan la mayoria de su tiempo en el cuicado del cliente, las enfermeras en hospitales solamente hacen uso de 35% de su tiempo en esta forma y las enfermeras en oficinas de medicos pasan todavia menos tiempo en el cuidado del cliente.

En todo estudio de la utilizacion de facilidades en el campo de cuidado de salud, uno halla diferentes porcentages de clientes cuales deberian de estar usando facilidades mas apropiadas — clientes que actualmente ganarian con el uso de facilidades menos costosas. Ya que el planeamiente compresivo en el campo de salud ha sido muy poco, occurido muy tarde, o ambas cosas en algunas comunidades, demasiados hospitales todavia mantienen facilidades caras que raramente son usadas. Estas facilidades no solamente suelan ser mala economia, pero tambien son un ejemplo de mal cuido. Equipo que es muy especializado y raramente usado, puede causarle un riesgo al cliente ocasional, ya que se puede haber deteriorado o el personal experto no esta a mano para supervisar su uso.

Banks Will Not Accept Car Registration Fees

Northern California motorists who are planning to pay vehicle registration fees at the local bank may be in for a surprise this year, Department of Motor Vehicles Director Robert Cozens announced last week.

Only one bank north of Los Angeles County will offer the service.

Cozens attributed the decline in bank registration service to the rise in popularity of renewal by mail.

"The breakeven point is at about 10,000 registrations at bank windows," he said. "When the number of registrations falls below that point, it becomes economically unfeasible to maintain DMV clerks at the location, and the service is not offered in the bank the following year."

The lone northern California bank to offer the service is in Sacramento.

"We expect even more motorists than last year will simply mail the registration form and checks to a local DMV office, especially in view of the current gasoline shortage. This should further reduce the need for special renewal windows in banks," Cozens added.

The bank renewal program will be phased out entirely after a year-round renewal system is established in 1975.

Schultz Photos On Display at Coast Library

The Pacifica Library will exhibit the photographic work of Mary Ellen Schultz.

Ms. Schultz has exhibited throughout California. Her work has been shown at Focus Gallery in San Francisco. In recent months Macy's Stanford, Fellowship Gallery in Los Gatos and Periwinkle Art Gallery in Pacifica have featured her photographs in one man shows. Her work has also been viewed at Mountain Meadow Ranch in the Trinity Alps.

She was born in Santa Maria, Calif. and studied photography at College of San Mateo and works as a portrait photographer. It has been under the tutelage of Al Joyce of the Camera Tree in Burlingame that she has developed her present creative style.

The show at the Pacifica Library can be seen through the month of January.

B'nai B'rith Women Slate SF Meeting

Skyline Chapter B'nai B'rith Women will hold its regular meeting on Jan. 15, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Manfred Namm, 57, Turquoise St., San Francisco.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Leo Buchwald, Stock Broker for Sutro & Company, who will speak on how to survive in the present day stock market.

The women are also in the process of making plans for a Bus Trip to Reno the later part of January.

For information on the trip, telephone Mrs. Richard Yagle, 731-2442.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

I'm sure that just three weeks ago, as you finished baking that last batch of Christmas cookies, you said (as I said), "I've had enough baking to last me for a year." Well, the year has passed, the fancy cookies have disappeared and it's time to bake again. After all, back to school means lunches to pack and these oatmeal cookies will travel very nicely.

CRUNCHY OAT MEAL COOKIES

- 1 cup shortening
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1½ cups flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1½ cups quick rolled oats
- three-fourths cup chopped walnuts
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

In large mixing bowl cream the one cup shortening, one cup granulated sugar and one-half cup brown sugar. Add the beaten egg and cream again.

Sift together the one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon soda and one teaspoon cinnamon. Add to creamed mixture and mix well. Stir in the one and one-half cups rolled oats, three-fourths cup chopped nuts and one teaspoon vanilla. Chill dough for one hour or longer. Lightly grease cookie sheet, place walnut size pieces of dough on sheet and flatten with a glass that has been buttered on bottom and dipped in granulated sugar. (You only have to butter the glass once, just resugar it.) Bake cookies in 350-degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 5 dozen.

This next recipe comes from Chris Nordstrom who lives in Novato. These cookies have an appealing name, are quite easy to make and taste delicious. What more can one ask of a cookie?

LEMON LOVE NOTES

- ½ cup butter
- 1 cup sifted flour
- ¼ cup powdered sugar
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 Tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 2 Tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel

Mix the one-half cup butter, one cup flour and one-fourth cup powdered sugar. Press into an ungreased 8-inch square pan. Bake in moderate 350-degree oven 8 minutes or until golden brown. Cool in pan on rack.

Combine the one cup sugar, two tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder. Add the two beaten eggs, two tablespoons lemon juice and two teaspoons peel. Mix well. Pour evenly over baked, cooled crust in pan.

Bake in 350-degree oven for 25 minutes. (Top puffs up in baking but falls in cooling.) Cool in pan on rack and cut in 2-inch squares. Sprinkle with powdered sugar if desired.

What's New

What's new with the bookworms? Things captivating enough to keep you at home reading and saving gas, even enjoyable enough to lead you to turn off the television set.

Among the new things, there is a novel that draws attention to the espionage and conspiracy that threatens to start a world war when the leaders of nations visit each other. "Kosygin Is Coming" by Tom Ardis is a thriller that tosses the Canadian Mounted Police into a web of intrigue as Russia's Premier Kosygin visits Canada.

With "Bank Job," author Robert L. Pike comes back to San Francisco to involve his mythical policeman, Lt. Jim Reardon, in a mystery filled to your liking. Four robbers knock over a downtown bank in three minutes flat and get away with a quarter of a million dollars. Lt. Reardon is assigned the case, and you get a good old mystery story as a result.

For a historic novel there's Allan W. Eckert's "The Court-Martial of Daniel Boone." Here is related the great frontiersman's severest test. Few people know that Daniel Boone, although a captain in the American forces of the Revolutionary War, was arrested for such high crimes as betraying his command to the Indians, consorting with the enemy, and accepting favors from the British. And what's more, Daniel Boone pleaded guilty to all of the charges except that of treason. To the amazement of the court, he insisted on defending himself. Then in face of the embittered settlers who once trusted him, Boone made a defense that made them stand open-mouthed, staring in amazement

NEW NON-FICTION includes another of Bruce Catton's books on the Civil War. This one, "Gettysburg: The Final Fury," is an hour by hour history of a battle that marked the turning point in the Civil War and has been called one of the most famous battles in world history. In this history as in others, Bruce Catton writes with the imagery of a novelist but nevertheless shows the relationships of events that are stranger than fiction and of the men involved. Truly Bruce Catton deserves his fame as "the most inspired craftsman among today's historians."

Richard Armour, that "old master of American humor," has a new book for pleasint reading. "Going Like Sixty" takes a light-hearted look at the aging process. Always the optimist, Armour finds that the advantages of being elderly far outweigh the disadvantages. For example, he says that you can choose your own companions instead of entertaining VIP's that you never liked in the first place.

The course of history was changed by two extraordinary women who became empresses of Russia. Catherine, daughter of a German princeling, married a Russian prince, became his consort and succeeded as ruler of Russia; Elizabeth was the illegitimate child of a servant girl and a Russian tsar. When she was born, her father defied custom and protocal to marry her mother even though her mother was the slave of a Russian general. As if to prove his love, her father forced the Russian people to accept his servant girl-slave wife as his successor. As Queen Catherine, Elizabeth's mother ruled all Russia. Elizabeth meanwhile grew up to be a power behind the throne until she seized it for herself. The stories of these Russian queens are told in Robert Coughlan's new book, "Elizabeth and Catherine."

So many good books are coming from the presses, 1975 promises to turn the country into a readers' paradise. Novels, histories, cookbooks, how-to-do-its, short stories — Ah! this is the time to read.

VIVIAN DUNCAN, center, of "Eva and Topsy Fame" recently produced and appeared in "Vivian Duncan Follies" at the Press Club of San Francisco. Look Before Leaping Into a Bicycle Sale

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor of BBB Barometer

There are 85 million bicycle owners in the United States today. This great increase in what was generally considered a pre-teen and teenager product, has come about partly because of a health kick young and old Americans are on, plus the fact that young adults with their families are riding for pleasure as well as for exercise. Bicycles will help meet the transportation needs of another group, workers and students during the fuel shortage.

The bicycle is a good investment which should be carefully examined. Properly maintained, it will always have a good resale or trade-in value. Prices range with the type of bicycle, and there are many to choose from. They come in three-speed, five-speed, ten-speed and fifteen speed, the latter used for racing.

Bicycles and bicycle equipment head the annual injury list of the Consumer Safety Commission with 372,000 injuries projected for the fiscal year of 1973-74. Many bicycling accidents occur because the bike is too large for the child. Children whose arms are not long enough to make a full turn with the handlebars and whose feet do not comfortably reach the ground without tilting their bikes, are likely to be in trouble in traffic as they do not have adequate control of the steering mechanism or brakes.

A knowledgeable bike shopper will protect himself, or the child he is buying for, from possible serious injuries by learning the operation of the bicycle gear system. Purchase only from a dealer who will give instructions on the maintenance and safety checks of tires, brakes, chain and gear changer. If the dealer is unwilling to take the time to carefully explain these details, find another dealer. It might save a life!

BICYCLE shoppers have a special vocabulary to learn. Following is a brief list of terms which may be unfamiliar:

—Epicyclic gears are found on models with up to three speeds. They are separated by a lever mounted on either handlebars or frame.

—Derailleur gears — a mass of gears and chain where the single sprocket and chain which changes the pedal-to-real-wheel speed ratio.

—Coaster brake — the simple braking system containing inside rear hub. The rider back-pedals to slow down and stop.

—Center-pull and side-pull caliper brakes. They use small hard rubber pads to stop bike by pressing against wheel. They are controlled by a hand lever and attached to a brake cable. Make sure brake cables force the pads to close onto the wheel.

Mary's Help Hospital

Pediatrics Dept. Chief Named

Sheldon Gross, M.D., has been appointed director of the Department of Pediatrics at Mary's Help Hospital, Rex G. Chase, administrator, announced last week.

Dr. Gross has been a member of the Mary's Help Medical-Dental staff since 1966, and has served as chairman of the Department of Pediatrics since September, 1969.

As the hospital-based Director of Pediatrics, Dr. Gross will be devoting his time to developing a teaching program in Pediatrics at Mary's Help Hospital. He hopes to develop a unified community residency program affiliated with other Bay Area hospitals. Dr. Gross is also making plans to institute an adolescent mental health program in conjunction with the hospital's Mental Health Unit.

Dr. Gross was graduated from The Chicago Medical School in 1955, and served his internship at Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn, New York. His residency in Pediatrics was completed in 1958 at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York. Dr. Gross is certified by the American Board of Pediatrics and is a Fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

After completing his education, Dr. Gross served in the United States Air Force as Chief of Pediatrics at Fairchild Air Force Base in Spokane, Washington. Following that, he was a Pediatric Cardiac Fellow at Children's Hospital in Boston, Massachusetts, as well as Clinical Assistant in Pediatric Cardiology at Harvard Medical School.

At the present time, Dr. Gross is on the teaching staffs of Mary's Help Hospital, St. Mary's Hospital and Medical Center, Mt. Zion Hospital and Medical Center and Children's Hospital, San Francisco.

Suzan Gernler Becomes a Bride

Suzan Raye Gernler and Robert Allison Simms were married recently at St. Mark's Catholic Church in Belmont. A reception followed at The Franciscan in Daly City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gernler of Redwood City. She is an alumna of Carlmont High School and Canada College, and is an affiliate of Beta Sigma Phi.

Robert's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Del I. Simms of San Mateo. He was graduated from San Mateo High School and the College of San Mateo.

When Suzan said her vows, she was dressed in a white slipper satin gown with a high lace neckline. Members of her bridal party wore pink print gowns with solid pink satin front panels.

Matron of honor duties were performed by the bride's sister, Mrs. Thomas Lee Henning. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Littlepage of San Jose and Karen Williams of San Mateo, the bride's cousin. Tamara Lynn Henning was the flower girl for her aunt's wedding.

Robert asked Robert Belli to be his best man. The bride's brother, Glenn R. Gernler, shared ushering duties with Billy J. Schreiber. Kurt Williams, the bride's cousin, served as ring bearer.

The newlyweds are now living in Redwood City.

Westlake Women Set First Meet of '74

The first meeting of 1974 of the Westlake Catholic Women will be conducted by the President, Mrs. Francis Kelly in the parish hall of Our Lady of Mercy Jan. 14 following the 8 p.m. devotions to Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

Mrs. Peter Balestrieri, chairman of the 20th annual fashion show and luncheon, "Venetian Holiday" will introduce the models for the Feb. 2 event. The festival committee has announced that the Linen Booth will hold a raffle.

Mrs. Robert Newman, chairman of the rummage sale, calendared for March 1-2 has announced that usable rummage may now be brought to the parish hall Sunday through Wednesday of each week.

Hospitality chairman, Mrs. Robert Drucker, has selected as hostesses for the evening, Mmes. Fernando Flores, George Zaits, Thomas O'Connor and Ronald Bachli.

All members of the parish are urged to attend this first meeting of the New Year.

Bruno Fire

A fire of undetermined origin, and with no estimate of loss, caused extensive damage in two apartments of the Shelter Creek Apartment complex in San Bruno Saturday, fire officials said.

IN TRAINING

Navy Seaman Anthony A. DiSalvo, son of Mrs. Douglas J. Tatton of 532 Skyline Drive, Daly City, is attending the Basic Combat Systems School at Mare Island in Vallejo. During the 26-week course he will receive instruction in the operation and maintenance of high speed digital computers.

Hero Aids SSF Police Officer

A retired Fiji Island policeman now living in South San Francisco and three members of his family have been recommended for certificate of community service awards for saving a California Highway Patrolman from serious injury on a remote part of the Coastside on Dec. 8.

The dramatic account of how Officer Amil L. Toscanelli, 37, was saved came to light last week when CHP Capt. C. W. Wynn recommended Shiu Narayan Mahraj and his two sons, Suresh and Naresh of 208 A St., South San Francisco, and his son-in-law, Vijendra Sharma of 360 Millbrae Ave., Millbrae, be given the awards.

According to Wynn, Toscanelli was southbound on Cabrillo Highway south of Tunitas Creek about 4:20 p.m. when he saw a man on his knees shooting while another man was sprawled against the right rear fender of a car parked in a turnoff being beaten by one man while a second man was holding him down. A woman was standing by the car.

Toscanelli stopped and reported a man later identified as Jack W. McCurdym of San Francisco yelled, "He needs help."

As he bent over to assist the man on the ground, Toscanelli reported, he was hit on the jaw by Forrest R. Markowski, 18, of Daly City, and then, a second time, by Michael Manuel, 17, also of Daly City.

As he backed away to try to get to his patrol car and radio for help, Toscanelli said McCurdym, Manuel and Manuel's brother, Robert, 17, tried to block his way. He managed, however, to push his way through and called for help.

When he got out of his patrol car, the officer reported, McCurdym punched him in the stomach. He said he managed to grab his assailant by the throat and throw him against the trunk of the car.

Three of the men converged on him and were forcing him back towards a cliff some 20 yards away, Toscanelli said.

Six or seven cars stopped, but no one helped, he said.

Then Mahraj came by with his sons and son-in-law and stopped immediately. Mahraj, who later proudly showed his recently acquired citizenship paper, ran across the highway and the four men got between the attackers and Toscanelli. Three spit on the older man and his son, Suresh, Toscanelli reported.

The elder Mahraj grabbed two of the men, allowing Toscanelli to handcuff them.

The younger men kept the third, still fighting, at bay until the arrival of a second Highway Patrol car, Captain Wynn reported. He said Mahraj served on the Fiji Island Police Department for 21 years before coming to the United States after his retirement.

SSF Candidate Dinner Slated

A fund raising dinner dance will be held Jan. 19, to honor Richard (Dick) Battaglia in his bid for a seat on the South San Francisco City Council.

GIRL SCOUTING

COOKIES go on sale Jan. 11 in Northern San Mateo County, as Girl Scouts will be selling four unique types of cookies.

Lemon-creme filled wafers join the popular chocolate-covered cookie and the peanut butter-creme filled Savannah. The traditional shortbread wafer, Scot Teas, will also be sold by Brownies, Juniors, Cadettes and Senior Girl Scouts.

SWIMMING for troops of all ages, with advance reservations through Mrs. Bunne Pardini, is scheduled for tomorrow night at the Jefferson High School pool.

PAT KNOX's Junior troop No. 446 made decorations for a Christmas tree they donated to a needy family. Lana Andes, Denise and Doreen Brignoli, Karen Carter, Marilyn Drexler and Kim Erler helped prepare the tree.

Dayna Figone, Renee Futrell, Charlene Gardella, Nancy Geimer, Susan Kemp, Liane Knox, Andrienne Konstan, Janet Leong, Marve Milton, Alice Plichcik, Laura Prado, Jennifer Roemer, and Donna Sabbatani participated.

Donna Salkind, Diane Sapienza, Ellen Sorensen, Debbie Thomas, Karen Venezio, Lisa Watts, Tamara Wetzel, and Laurie Yoshioka were assisted by Mmes. Caroline Futrell and Jewel Drexler.

LIFESAVING CERTIFICATES were earned by Ellen Ridge, Kathy Moore, Cathie Walters, Carrie Stewart and Glynis Heissenbuttel during the recent course taught by Bruce Hoffman.

Karen Dale, Monica Edwards, Cheryl Figone, Barbara Skirra, Seona Connolly, Marian Fitzpatrick, Diana Law, and Shawn Murray earned Junior Lifesaving Certificates.

A BALLET performance served as the recent outing of Daly City Junior Troop No. 1854, as the girls watched their troop member Annamarie Brizuela perform with the Daly City Civic Ballet.

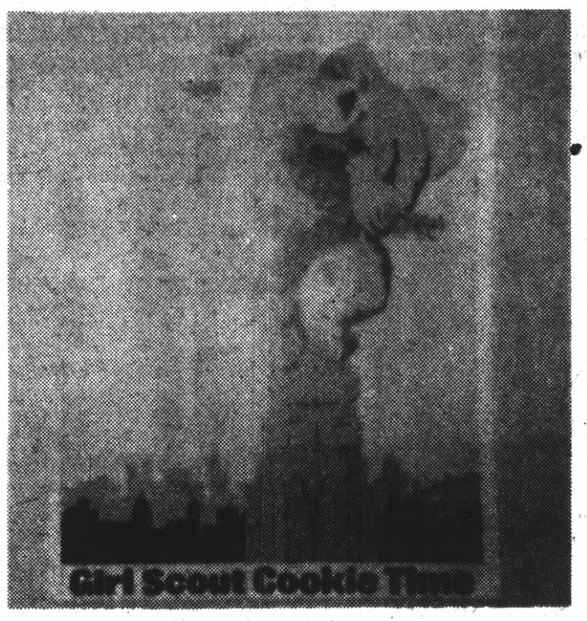
Susan Barrett, Stacey Breslin, Karen Carilla, Jean Fahy, Kim and Tracy Gallagher, Lisa Lambro, Melanie Lindner, Judy Mudge, Dee O'Gorman, Lorrie Phillips, Tracy Pult and Nadine Reich enjoyed the ballet.

Tricia Roemer, Dana Simpson and Deanna Vannucci were accompanied by their troop leaders Mrs. Richard Mudge and parents Mmes. Harry Lindner, Robert Reich and Gerald Pult.

JUNIOR TROOP NO. 2817 members Dawne Holder and Lorraine Parker and Brownie troop No. 1810 member Lorelei Morino, with Board member Al Schwarzbach and mascots David Schwarzbach, age 5, and Billy Holder, age 3, recently posed for the Girl Scout cookie slides to be used in the Bay Area cookie sale promotion.

"A DELICIOUS way to support Girl Scouting" is the promotional theme for the cookie sale drive which provides 10 cents per $1 box profit for each troop selling.

All additional profits go to council support services: for troop organization, leader training, publicity, special events, etc. Scouts will be selling cookies in front of banks, supermarkets and shopping centers in gnorthern San Mateo County.



STARTING JAN. 11 Northern San Mateo County Girl Scouts will be selling four unique boxes of cookies, in part to earn troop money, but also to earn the above poster. The pink gorilla featured on a multi-colored background will be awarded to every Girl Scout who sells 50 boxes of more of Girl Scout cookies.

A Unique Gift Given To S. San Francisco

The City of South San Francisco has received an unusual gift — a 20-acre parksite, for free.

The donors are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Coopman, the principal owners of Stonegate Ridge Development Co.

The land is located adjacent to Eucaluptus Avenue, north of Parkway and Rocca, and is situated next to a city-owned site atop of Sign Hill, which contains the landmark sign: "South San Francisco, the Industrial City."

The land is being given solely for use as park and open space.

"We're getting old," Coopman remarked Dec. 31. Development of the land, he said, would cause certain problems, so he and his wife thought that they would simply give the land to the city.

The land was once heavily wooded and many Boy Scouts camped there. However, some of the eucalypti there have been lost in grass fires, although there are many trees remaining.

"I hope that this gift will result in a reforestation program," Coopman said.

Coopman was the second owner of the land in a century. He acquired the lands of the South San Francisco Co. — original developers of South San Francisco — together with Haas & Hynie and Utah Construction Co. — but later split off from his associates to develop the residential portions of the land.

The land had been slated for development of duplexes, townhouses and some single family homes, he said.

Coopman previously had helped the Elks obtain their lodge site by selling it to the fraternity at a low price. He later gave a couple of acres to the city for a street access.

He is currently associated with Challenge Developments in development of the Stonegate Ridge townhouse community.

County Aides Pay Increase Is Urged

County Manager M. D. Tarshes recommended to the Board of Supervisors, Jan. 2, that approximately 1,000 "orphan" county clerical employes be granted a 5.5 per cent salary increase effective Jan. 1.

The employes are "orphans" in that they have no bargaining representative because of a jurisdictional dispute which goes back nearly two years.

The clerical workers, about one-fourth of the total number of county employes, formerly were members of the Peninsula Association of Public Employes (PAPE). About two years ago, when PAPE was in the process of merging into Service Employes International Union (SEIU), Local 715, the clerical workers voted to have Local 829 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal employes (AFSCHME) as their bargaining representative.

SIEU charged Local 829 was "raiding," and was upheld by the parent AFL-CIO.

The employes subsequently went to court, and Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn ruled that Local 829 was the bargaining representative for the clerical workers.

However, Frank Gillis, business agent for Local 829 informed Tarshes a few weeks ago that he had been directed by the union's international officials not to represent the clerical workers until the raiding charge is decided by the AFL-CIO.

Consequently, Tarshes said, he took it upon himself to represent the employes for all intents and purposes, coming up with today's recommendation. He suggests it be made subject to review and adjustment based upon what other employe groups end up with in their agreements with the county.

TRANSFERRED

Airman Josito A. Dumo, whose wife, Daisy, is the daughter of Dionisio C. Magno, 1413 Southgate Ave., Daly City, has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Lowry for specialized training in the supply field.

GRADUATED

Marine Lance Corporal Steve M. Banks, son of Mrs. Joan C. Banks of 1183 Fernandez Way, Pacifica, has graduated from Non-Commissioned Officers Leadership School at the Marine Corps Base in Okinawa, Japan.

His studies were designed to enhance his leadership ability and included close order drill, Marine Corps history and tradition, military courtesy, administrative procedures and participation in physical fitness training.

He attended Terra Nova High School.

MRS. JOHN BIANCHI, right, and Mrs. Carmen Dillon, chairwomen for the Holy Angels Women's Guild Fashion Show, check final plans for "Dinner Is Served." These words will be heard by the members and their guests Jan. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall where a dinner will be served for $2 per person as a promotional activity for the Guild's Spring Fashion Show, to be held in April. All parishioners and friends are welcome to attend the dinner. There will be a no-host cocktail hour beginning at 7 p.m. Tickets and further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Louis Caserza, 756-3396; Mrs. John Moran, PL 6-3558 or Mrs. Julia Padreddi, 755-4474.

Study in Europe Program Offered

A rare chance to study and travel through Europe this summer will be possible for any local high school and college students by the cooperative program planned by the Foreign Study League for the Jefferson Union High school District.

A subsidiary of The Reader's Digest, the League has a reputation for educational excellence and has been taking students and advisors from this area to Europe for many years.

Administrator for the program, which includes tours of Lisbon, Madrid, Rome, Florence, Innsbruck, Paris and London for 35 days, is Marc Mallinger, English Instructor at Westmoor High School, Daly City.

Mallinger took a group of students last summer with the League and has emphasized that the program is already half filled. Interested students should contact him or the League's Special Representative Mrs. Doris Fox for reservations.

Advisors who will be traveling with the students are Mary Kartsounis of Skyline College, Crystal Flueter of Terra Nova High School, Rick Karp, and Cathy Hair of Westmoor. High school and college credit is available.

Other openings are still available in other League programs for both students and teachers interested in being Advisors.

For details contact Mrs. Fox at Westmoor High School.

Police Issue Warning On Picture Salesmen

A warning to watch out for house-to-house photographers who have been victimizing residents of South San Francisco was issued this week by that city's police department.

According to the warning, salesmen for a firm operating out of a Polk Street address in San Francisco and using the name Sales Promotions" are offering to take an 8-by-10 color portrait of the family for $3.95. When the prospective victim agrees, an appointment is set up and a day or two later a different representative arrives and takes a picture.

The representative then asks that the $3.95 fee be paid at that time in cash. He then promises that the photographs will be ready in about two weeks. That is the last that the victims see or hear from the firm.

The telephone number given is listed with a studio not involved with "Sales Promotions." The address given is not registered with the San Francisco Police Department.

Crab Feed Set At Elks Club

The West Bay Sparklers annual Crab Feed will be held Jan. 23 at the Elks Club in South San Francisco beginning at 6 p.m.

From Sandwiches to Gourmet Dining House

Stelios Karagianis was born in 1887 in Macdeonia, Greece. At the age of 20 he went aboard the Konstantinos and sailed to the United States, where he drifted from job to job and traveled from New York to San Francisco. His wife Annastasia bore his four children—three girls and one boy.

By 1927 he had purchased a stretch of Rockaway Beach property and sold sandwiches and peanuts to passing fishermen. He finally opened his own restaurant, but it burned down twice. That didn't stop him, however. When he opened a third time, he decided he needed a name everyone could pronounce (the fishermen were constantly murdering his real name). So he called himself Charles Gust, and many came to visit the Greek man at Rockaway Beach. Business increased, and so his establishment became a popular dining spot with a calm, relaxed atmosphere enhanced by the pounding waves of the Pacific Ocean.

Stelios Karagianis (or Charles Gust) passed on several years ago, but his one and only son, Nick, is carrying on the family tradition with his trio of restaurants at Rockaway Beach: Nick's restaurant, the Moonraker, and the newest, Captain Charles.

Captain Charles is a restaurant specializing in seafood, and while Charles Gust never earned the rank in any military or nautical service, he will always be remembered in that capacity.

The decor of Captain Charles is similar to that of the Moonraker upstairs. Sailing gear, pilings and other salt-encrusted objects are scattered throughout the dining room to remind us of our relationship with the sea and the life that it perpetuates. The menu is an extensive selection of seafood, covering every imaginable concoction. And then some.

ASTOUNDS AUDIENCES — Sammy Davis Jr. will be the weekend headliner at Harrah's Tahoe January 11, 12 and 13. While headliner entertainment is featured on a weekends-only basis at Harrah's Tahoe through March, dinner-dance buffet is featured nightly in the South Shore Room. Gourmet treats are prepared by Harrah's master chefs, and the Brian Farnon Trio supplies music for dancing.

Harness Racing Now At Bay Meadows Track

Harness Racing is now the big attraction at Bay Meadows in San Mateo. The current meet, which got under way Dec. 27, will continue through March 3. Nine races are scheduled during the afternoon and evening. Racing Tuesday through Saturday during the month of January. Starting in February, there will be racing each Sunday through March 3, the closing day. In addition, of course, there will be racing Monday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Check the advertisement for dates and time. Luncheon, dinner, and cocktails are available. Make up a party and have a day at the races. It's great for fun and fund-raising. Added attraction: The Bay Meadows Golf Course and Driving Range is open and will be available Sundays, Mondays and Fridays all during the month of January. For information, phone 341-7204.

Circle Star Theater Stars Favor Scotty's

In addition to pampering their dining patrons with outstanding food and fine service, Scotty Campbell's is the scene of "something always doing." Mary Lou, co-owner of this bustling Redwood City restaurant, confided to your Bright Lighter during a feast of English-cut prime rib that melted with every bite, that stars of the screen and stage frequently invade the dining room with groups of entertainers for early dinner and cocktails following performances at Circle Star Theater. A great way to start out the New Year right is dinner at Scotty Campbell's . . . All cities have their "seafood specialties," and San Mateo is no exception. Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant has a well-rounded menu of treats from the sea and a variety of Italian dishes served during luncheon and dinner daily. For fresh seafood to prepare at home, visit The Fish Depot next door . . . Sports fans were quick to recognize former 49ers' football great R.C. "Alley Oop" Owens downing a huge, two-pound top sirloin steak in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco. Owens told Phil that his new Alameda night club, "Deliverance," is a smashing success.

Romano's Pizza Features "The Works"

When Enrico Romano says he makes pizzas without holding back or skimping on any of the ingredients, he isn't kidding. At Romano's Italian restaurant, located at Rockaway Beach in Pacifica, your pizza (whether large, medium or small) comes heaped with pepperoni, mushrooms, mustacholi, linguica, sausage, olives, anchovies, salami, etc. . . . By popular demand, Pop-A-Groove returns to the bandstand at Whiskey Hill for a limited engagement, through January 12 . . . The Garfin Gathering is featured in the Golden Rooster Lounge of the Rodeway Inn, Tuesdays through Saturdays. There's dancing and live entertainment here seven nights a week. Special cocktail hours, with hors d'oeuvres served Monday through Friday evenings. . . . Murray Lehr's popular Lehr's Greenhouse restaurant and florist in San Francisco, the Bay Area's only restaurant with a full-time florist on the premises, is now a member of FTD (Florists' Transworld Delivery Association). So if the romantic garden and atmosphere make you think of someone far away, you can send them a bouquet via an international network of 37,000 florists.

WINNING WAY — Kiki Paige, who reaches her audience with a warm smile and a sultry voice, and her Three Paiges are appearing in the Theater Lounge, Harvey's Resort Hotel, South Lake Tahoe, through January 23.

"Belmont Steaks" Set For Marine Holiday

The famed "Belmont Steaks" has arrived at Marine World's Holiday Inn. Innkeeper Joe De Dio expects this special promotion to cause quite a commotion on the mid-Peninsula. The "Belmont Steaks," as designed for the Holiday, is a "2-for-1 Steak Dinner" offer which is valid through Sunday evening, January 20. It's a Top Sirloin steak dinner, served complete with baked potato, vegetable and salad from their Salad Bar. During this "Belmont Steaks" event you pay only $6.25 for one dinner and receive the second steak dinner free. But you must present the special coupon found in today's Bright Lights to the hostess in the Inn's Gold Coast dining room. Offer available every evening of the week from 5 p.m. . . . We're in an era of saving energy. Applicable, of course, to gasoline. Well, instead of far-off junkets to distant restaurants, why not dine in San Francisco. That points to Bruno's on the Mission. Centrally located and with plenty of rear entrance, illuminated parking, another gas saver. Dine out but don't empty your gas tank doing it. Bruno's, the gas mizer. . . . The Costa Brava with all its Mediterranean splendor, sits high atop a hill overlooking downtown San Francisco. You'll marvel at the after-dark view of the City's twinkling skyline while dining. A new menu goes into effect tomorrow, with prices starting at $3.50. Dinner includes soup of the day, salad, French bread, dessert and coffee.

Phoenix Restaurant Makes Local Debut

The Phoenix restaurant, located on Peninsula Avenue in San Mateo, is the newest dining establishment to make its debut in Bright Lights. Owned by Tony Kwan, a youthful veteran of the restaurant business, the Phoenix specializes in both Chinese and American food. Family dinners begin at $2.35 per person, and there is also quite a selection of a la carte items. An eight-ounce Choice Top Sirloin Steak is moderately priced at $3.85 . . . Now on stage nightly, Tuesday through Saturday, in the lounge of Stuart Anderson's Black Angus restaurant are the Edwards Brothers. These two handsome gents, both multi-talented, are entertainment mainstays throughout the Black Angus circuit . . . Brunch suggestion: The Buffet Brunch featured every Sunday in the Royal Hall dining room of the Holiday Inn, South San Francisco, is magnificient! Available from 9 a.m., the buffet includes an array of fruits and breakfast favorites. Beverage is included, of course, and second buffet servings are invited . . . Italian dishes and several varieties of pizza are listed on the dinner menu at Nino's. Owner Tony Mongiovi is the culinary artist here, and you should try his Veal Cacciatore. Fantastico!

Billy And Johnny Star At Finocchio's

Billy and Johnny, one of the best "twin" acts to hit the Bay Area in a long time, present lively dance routines, sing, and take part in the dance ensembles at Finocchio's. The blond female impersonators help to maintain Finocchio's reputation as a great entertainment spot. . . . Frank and Fannie of Frank Torres Montara restaurant feature a complete selection of imported and domestic wines to enhance your choice of entree. For a real adventure in dining, order one of their Peruvian specialties. . . . Greyhound buses pour into South Lake Tahoe, via Park Avenue Tours, seven days a week carrying hopeful visitors who try their luck at the many types of gaming activity. Plus, you receive generous bonuses. . . . Modest dinner prices are attractive to the breadwinner at Sticknev restaurants because they make it possible for dining out by the whole family without financial strain. . . . Flavor tip from Durby Adkins, manager of the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto: Breast of Chicken saute Zinara, tender young chicken breast sauteed in Madeira Wine and Supreme Sauce, and a carafe of vin blanc from their charming wine bar.

'Magnum Force' — Good Drama

All the years that Clint Eastwood was raking in the dollars making "spaghetti Westerns" abroad, there was a snob attitude to dismiss him as an also ran among Hollywood personalities. There was never any credibility as to his acting talent.

But he's been making some darn good action films of a more thoughtful nature these days with a hot shot production company of his own. It has found its own identity with the public taste in packaging expert script writers, directors and cameramen, all functioning with maximum impact under Eastwood's charismatic screen image.

"Magnum Force," currently playing on the Peninsula, is an even more intriguing police force drama than "Dirty Harry." The first of the two was concerned with officers who dealt with criminals on their own terms. It was "the end justifying the means," attitude as they clashed with their supervisors and city hall on the one hand while being cut down on all sides by snipers and psycopaths on the other.

In "Magnum Force," he inverts that idea based on a story by John Milius and Michael Cimino from original material by Harry Julian Fink and R.M. Fink who created "Harry."

Now Eastwood, still the renegade of the force with a black partner, played with low key sincerity by Felton Perry, tracks a series of vengeance killings directed against known criminals, corrupt labor leaders and underworld syndicate bosses to a corps of self-appointed vigilante-executioner policemen.

They're clean cut, college and police academy trained, handsome, all-American types on the outside with Nazi mentalities and no conscience about killing those men (and scores of innocent friends and associates) they select as being too smart for the courts and too powerful for the law enforcement network to entrap.

So here is Eastwood, still at odds with his San Francisco Police Department superior, Lt. Briggs, played with gritty toughness by Hal Holbrook, while covering cases in the company of ruthless killer cops. Everyone is toting Magnum hand guns, (Harry's specialty is a .44) and there's a whole lot of shooting that takes place around the bay city and environs with one scary episode at the Cost Plus outlet on Fisherman's Wharf.

You'll recognize most of the settings and many of the extras, who were locally employed from the ranks of little theater groups, A.C.T., Pitschel Players and the former Committee Theater. Ann Brebner's casting office had a field day when this one hit town. Opening scenes involve the news media on the steps of City Hall and half a dozen radio, press and television reporters make their film debuts.

It's a hairy, scary, bloody and thrilling film that excels in the one necessary ingredient to this genre: action and suspense. For fans of car chases and chilling stunt driving, the duo motorcycle chase aboard an abandoned aircraft carrier, up ramps, across gangways, into the hold and across the deck is a whopper.

New Services for Medi-Cal Patients

Area Medi-Cal patients can now receive both inpatient and outpatient rehabilitation treatment at Chope Community Hospital, the only facility to offer both services for Medi-Cal patients in San Mateo County.

Chope Hospital Rehabilitation Coordinator Mrs. Lynn Hertel said that during the average month about 30 Medi-Cal patients now use the new rehabilitation services provided them at the hospital.

Prior to the start of the expanded Medi-Cal services at Chope, many Medi-Cal patients who needed rehabilitation services "probably weren't treated," according to Mrs. Hertel.

Included in the rehabilitation services now provided to Medi-Cal patients are physical, speech and occupational therapy, Mrs. Hertel said. She noted that a big majority of the rehabilitation recipients are persons with amputated limbs. Amputees who qualify for Medi-Cal rehabilitation treatment now receive training and physical therapy on how to use their artificial limbs under the plan.

Pacifica Candidate Tour Set

The City of Pacifica will hold its annual candidates' tour and briefing this week — an unusual event designed to provide better-informed campaigning on Pacifica's issues.

Tonight at 7:30 p.m., a candidates' briefing session will be held in the conference room of the Pacifica Municipal Facility, at the treatment plant.

City Manager Dave Thompson will try to answer questions candidates have on city policies. If necessary, he will explain the powers of general-law cities, as well as the status of various city projects.

The candidates' tour of the city will be Friday at 3 p.m. Candidates will meet at City Hall, and will inspect the civic center, various parks and recreation buildings, and other civic facilities.

As usual, Pacifica this year has a large number of candidates. Many have run before and have taken part in civic activities for years.

Running are Stan Farber, sole incumbent in the race, Janice Fulford, Warren Gabrielli, May Gee, Fred Howard, Virginia Jaeger, Sidney Lorvan, Pete Murray, Bill Richardson and Kitty Bouly-Wilson.

Damage in D.C. Fire

A two-alarm fire severely damaged a Daly City home Sunday.

No one was injured in the blaze, which fire officials estimated caused $11,500 damage to the John Tinsley home at 38 Longview Drive.

Officials said the fire was reported shortly before 6 p.m. and spread quickly throughout the bathroom, hallway and bedroom areas.

Investigators surmise the blaze, which apparently started in a bedroom closet, had smouldered for some time.

DC Victim Identified

The body of a young woman found dumped at the base of the cliff at Thornton Beach in Daly City last Friday has been identified as that of Charlotte Cook, 19, of Oakland.

Coroner's Investigator Steve Hortin said the identification was made by the strangled girl's father, Neal Davis, of San Francisco. Davis was contacted by an aunt who read a newspaper description of the expensive camel's hair coat the girl was wearing and informed the father.

Hortin said the girl had been last reported alive Thursday afternoon.

Wood Carving Class Slated

For all front-porch whittlers and would be sculptors, the South San Francisco Parks and Recreation Department is offering a course in woodcarving.

Beginning Jan. 16, and meeting once weekly for 10 weeks, the course will emphasize carving three-dimensional figures out of blocks of soft wood. The class is open to teens and adults, and tools are provided. For details call 588-6200, Ext. 50.

Prices are Discounted and Single Item Priced Except on Fair Traded and Government Controlled Items.

A HEARTY LAUGH was Supervisor Jean Fassler's reaction as she took over as chairwoman of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors as outgoing chairman Bob St. Clair viewed his "gag" present, a topless doll.

(Post Photo)

'Big Job Ahead'

Fassler Heads Board

Calling for a "deeper sense of commitment from all of us if we're going to get the job done," Mrs. Jean Fassler assumed the role of chairwoman of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Wednesday for the third time since joining the board Jan. 1, 1965.

"We have a big job to do, let's shoulder the load and get on with it . . . that's a fair warning," Mrs. Fassler stated as she accepted the gavel of authority from outgoing chairman Robert St. Clair.

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald was elected vice-chairman of the board, indicating his assuming the chairmanship next year in accord with the long-established policy.

In a brief acceptance speech, Mrs. Fassler noted some upcoming important decisions in land use planning, development of a transit system "we can afford and we can afford to live with," housing and redevelopment, and a county-wide plan for future water supply and sewage disposal.

Also, she said, there will be the need to put together a workable health care plan "that will not hedge on new directions, but will preserve what is worth keeping."

In addition, she cited the need of resolving some issues on land use around the county's San Carlos and Half Moon Bay airports.

"Let us commit ourselves to sort out some of these issues, make the vital decisions that are required, identify honestly those that cannot be resolved, given the present conditions, and thus set out some guide posts for the new year," the new chairman stated.

Outgoing chairman St. Clair, reviewing the year's accomplishments, noted that the county "has learned to do business in a new way, with a fixed tax rate."

Noting he had predicted that 1973 would be a year for "some momumental tasks," St. Clair noted that some "giant endeavors are underway."

He cited the action to get mass transit in the county by placing a transit district vote on the ballot next June, the endorsement of a San Bruno Mountain regional park and open space plan encompassing some 1,500 acres, completion of the open space and conservation elements of the County General Plan, adoption of a cancept for a capital improvement plan, and the beginning of finalizing the alternatives for future medical care services provided by the county.

"The list seems to be endless," St. Clair stated. "I think it indicates that we have had an exceptionally energetic and active year, and perhaps a growing workload."

The outgoing chairman cited for recognition "our industrious county employes, our dedicated county department heads and the tireless efforts of the members of the county manager's office and our own staff.

"Everybody has had a part in the satisfaction to be felt in looking back at the year's accomplishments."

An Entire County Effort

Preparing for a Crash

The eventuality of an airplane crash was discussed by Don Allen when the San Mateo County Fire Chiefs Association met at South San Francisco's Emergency Operating Center last week. Allen is the district administrative officer of thjle San Mateo County Area Disaster Office, as well as adminstrative civil defense officer for South San Francisco.

Allen presented a plan to the chiefs, which would go into operation the moment any fire department sends a "Code 1000" to Redwood Fire Control.

The plan is still in rough form, according to Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner. However, with approval of the fire chiefs last week, the plan can now be further refined and someone made responsible for the thousands of myraid details that must be worked out in case of air disaster.

Among those taking part in the meeting and pledging their support for the plan, were San Francisco Fire Chief Pete Calden, and representatives of the county's police chiefs, Red Cross and other disaster services.

The local fire department at the scene of the crash will be responsible for establishing a field command post, directing operations and communications, as well as keeping Redwood Fire Control aware of any needs. However, the local department will get lots of help.

Redwood Fire Control, upon receiliving a "Code 1000" call (air crash) would call all fire departments, sheriff's office, California Highway Patrol and the San Francisco Fire Department. San Mateo Fire Dispatch would call PG&E, Pacific Telephone Co. and the local water companies. The Sheriff's Office would call the airport, county medical society, the coroner, the Red Cross and all the police departments.

Sheriff John McDonald has assured Allen that he could muster 200 policemen to the scene of a crash within minutes.

"The first thing," Toellner said, "would be to close off all streets and roads — even 280 and Bayshore if necessary."

He cited the closure of Bayshore for several hours a few weeks ago, when a gasoline truck turned over in South San Francisco.

The biggest problem in sending emergency vehicles to the scene of the crash would be the sightseers blocking traffic, Toellner said.

An example of this plan — which takes into account every city where a crash can happen — is the San Bruno plan. Five cities, in addition to San Bruno, would rush engines to the scene of the crash: Brisbane, two; Burlingame, two; Daly City, three; Millbrae, two; South San Francisco, five. In addition, five South County cities would send engines to Burlingame, for possible reinforcements — Menlo Park, Redwood City, San Carlos and Belmont, as well as San Mateo. For a second task force, Pacifica would send one engine and the California Forestry Division would send two engines to San Bruno Firehouse two, on Skyline Boulevard.

"Although the planes mostly fly over South San Francisco, over my house in fact," said Chief Toellner, "no city is immune," to a possible crash.

Next step, the fire chief reports, will be a simulated disaster, in which all agencies will go through the steps of responding to a disaster.

Such a plan, he said, is becoming more urgent, with the larger aircraft, some carrying 300 to 400 persons, loaded with 20 to 30 tons of jet fuel, taking off and landing over thickly populated areas.

Councilman Abstains

A new wrinkle in the controversial conflict of interest act which went into effect Jan. 1 appeared at Monday night's meeting of the South San Francisco City Council.

Councilman Bill Borba, who heads the Borba Manufacturing Co. in South San Francisco, abstained from voting on approval of some bills presented to the city during the past month. He said that his firm has sold trophies to those persons presenting the bills.

He commented that it was not clear under the new law whether he was actually involved in any conflict of interest.

"I must be in a position, however," he stated, "to protect myself in case there is such a conflict."

He explained that he had always prevented his firm from doing business with the city while he was a member of the council. Whether he was allowed to approve bills of persons who did business with his firm, however, was not clear.

Some Suggested Cutbacks

DC Eyes the Energy Crunch

To meet the demands of the energy crunch the Daly City City Hall has turned down the temperature, turned off some lighting inside and outside the building, and distributed reminders to employes to conserve paper products.

The latest discussion on conservation of resources taken up Monday by the council and city staff dealt with city-owned cars and fuel — both critical items nowadays.

Councilman Victor Kyriakis asked for a breakdown on how much gasoline city equipment, other than emergency vehicles, is using and the size of these vehicles.

The discussion was sparked by a request from the city staff asking for an agreement with the Atlantic-Richfield Co. to furnish 160,000 gallons of gasoline, 165 gallons of heating fuel and other petroleum products for the coming year.

ARCO noted in its letter to the city that either side could terminate the agreement with 30 days' notice.

This clause didn't set well with most of the council, inasmuch as the city could get caught with its fuel tanks short if the energy crisis worsens and the petroleum company decides to cut service.

City Mgr. David Rowe said four years ago the city began buying and leasing small compact cars, except for police vehicles.

And while the city's fleet of cars has increased substantially in recent years, consumption of gasoline has not been that great — up only 10,000 gallons over last year.

New Church Officers Will Be Ordained

New church officers will be ordained and installed to office at the Brodmoor Presbyterian Church, 377-87th St., Daly City, at Sunday's 10 a.m. worshop service.

Four will be ordained as deacons to the 12-member Board of Deacons. They are Meg Cummins, Helen Hayes, Hazel Eagleton, and Kim Pappas. The following Sunday there will be five ordained as elders to the 15-member church session. They are Gerry Manis, Trudy Gforerer, Eunice Brabec, Charlotte Spruiell and John Marshall.

At the Jan. 13 service the pastor, Rev. Herbert Tweedie will preach on "You Are What You Worship." The 30-voice Senior Choir with Director Dave Cassel and Organist Carl Eagle will sing the anthems "Praise to the Lord" and "Lord, My Saviour, My Salvation."

There will be a friendly coffee time in the social hall after the morning worship.

Infant care is provided with Sunday School for 3-year-olds through the sixth grade held the same hour.

The public is invited.

CSM to Offer Classes At Local Schools

Evening classes of a three-unit College of San Mateo course (Education 2) dealing with the role of teacher assistants in elementary and secondary schools will be offered in San Bruno and South San Francisco during spring semester.

Both groups are open to any interested adult local resident; both will meet Tuesdays, 7-10 p.m., beginning Feb. 5.

The San Bruno class will be at Belle Air School, with William Henricks as instructor. The South San Francisco class will be at Los Cerritos School, with instruction by the school's principal, Emanuel Damonte.

Another three-unit CSM course on physiological, psychological and philosophical aspects of the teaching of reading (Education 3) will be offered at Green Hills School, Millbrae, on Mondays from 3:30-6:30 p.m. starting Feb. 4.

buildings and landscaping.

He noted that, although 35 feet was the normal height limit in South San Francisco, PCM zones allowed a 50-foot maximum.

Mayor Warren Steinkamp, after an intermission, announced a Jan. 15, 5 p.m. meeting of the homeowners, landowners and city staff, to work out a compromise.

In other council business, the council:

—Awarded an $11,000 plus bid to Valley Sheet Metal for the long-awaited heating, air conditioning and ventilation for city hall.

—Heard a protest by Councilman Terry Mirri that city workers continued to work outside during the heaviest rainfall of the season. This work was not connected with possible flooding. "It's almost inhuman," he declared.

—Heard a protest from Ron Streit of Fir Ave. that no copy of the city ordinances was available in city libraries and ordered them to be available by the end of the week.

—Heard a protest from Donald Grimes of Francisco Drive, about noise from the loading of wheat from railroad cars into a series of silos at the Oroweat Bakery.

"It makes a loud rumbling noise, like a sledgehammer hitting the ground."

Fazackerley Trial On

The trial of South San Francisco Police Officer Keith Fazackerley went into its second day yesterday in the Northern Judicial District Court of Judge George G. Tyler.

Monday, the jury was selected and sworn in and a question arose over whether one of the witnesses will be able to appear. The case was then adjourned to today.

Fazackerley is charged with battery, assault and battery by an officer, and disturbing the peace.

Ohlone Downs Skyline

Everything Was Fine, Then . . .

By DICK DRAPER
Post Sports Writer

"We went fine for about eight weeks," said Skyline College Coach Walt Rilliet, "and nothing happened. Then . . ."

Then . . . a lot happened. None of it good.

Just before New Year's Day, guard Eddie Jones, a gutty player, a veteran, a father of four, perished tragically in a house fire. His leadership, his 12 points per game . . . gone.

Then . . . guard Wyatt Sweeney, the team's top scorer, was mugged by a gang of streptococci bacteria and put to bed with a red-hot thermometer jutting from under his tongue.

Then . . . guard (are there any left?) Mason Larkin, another gunner, was gunned down by influenza.

That was the setting for last Saturday's Coast Conference opener with Ohlone at the Trojan gym, with Sweeney playing but barely out of the recovery room; Larkin sitting forlornly on the bench in his civvies looking very cool in his felt mod hat, but also looking very, very inactive; and with Rilliet keeping one eye on the scoreboard and the other on his supply of aspirin tablets.

The expected happened. The healthies (Ohlone) beat the sickies (Skyline) 75-71.

"I'm not taking anything away from Ohlone," commented Rilliet, "not at all. Ohlone played very well, but the illness on our team . . ."

The Trojans took charge at the outset and gained a 10-4 advantage before the hot shooting of the visitors' 6-3½ forward Mark Brown and 5-10 guard Carl Rober brought the Saints back.

Ohlone, playing solid ball control, took advantage of numerous Trojan turnovers and held a 42-35 lead with two minutes left in the first half before a Bob Kilpatrick goal, a Marty Gale steal and feed to Sweeney and an at-the-buzzer shot by Mark Chatman left Skyline trailing 44-41 at halftime.

Then it was storybook time. Larkin came on the court after the halftime break. Ladies and gentlemen, Mason Larkin WILL play. Could he turn the tide? Will he win the game for Skyline?

Larkin popped in his first jumper, but the tide did not turn, for the ball-hawking Saints, led by Doug Cummings' steals, opened the lead from 44-43 to 54-47 at the 14:44 mark. Nearly four minutes were to pass before the Trojans would score again.

By then, Ohlone led 64-47. Out of reach.

"Finally in the last eight or nine minutes we began to play like ourselves," said Rilliet, whose club did indeed fight back to the final three-point deficit. "But those first 12 or 13 minutes really hurt."

tion we have to work harder and be healthier against Menlo on Wednesday."

Hopefully, 6-0 guard Marty Gale will still be among the robust in the 7:30 p.m. clash at the San Bruno gymnasium. His brilliant drives and excellent all-around play (18 points) coupled with forward Bob Marty's rebounding and scoring (12 points) kept the Trojans in the contest Saturday.

Still, it was not enough to halt Rober from whistling in 24 points, and Brown and Cummings accounting for 27.

Prior to the game, there was a moment of silence for Jones, whose 1½ years at Skyline will not be forgotten.

An Eddie Jones Scholarship Fund has been established, and donations may be sent to Skyline College, 3300 College Dr., San Bruno, in care of Dean Herrero. More than $300 has already been donated, and contributions will be taken until the end of January.

Students Mike Bisori of Skyline and Ted Pallas of San Francisco State, with help from the Skyline student body, were instrumental in establishing the Jones fund. Both Bisori and Pallas are recreation majors, as was Jones.

A memorial service was held for Jones on campus last week.

Padres' Crucial WCAL Clashes

By STEVE JOHNSON
Post Correspondent

Serra High's basketball team, heading into its most pivotal week of the season, will have to do it without the desirable element of momentum.

The Padres had a six-game winning streak broken Saturday night by Riordan of San Francisco, 57-52, in the first of three consecutive West Catholic Athletic League crucials.

Serra, 12-2 overall but 1-1 in league, hosts St. Francis and St. Ignatius (two top WCAL powers) later nights this week in matches that will determine much about Padre playoff and title hopes.

Riordan, the defending WCAL and CCS champ, also handed Serra its first loss at home since Feb. 1972, ending a 17-game victory string.

Complete domination early that led to a brief 15-point first half lead and an overall 38-27 edge on the boards was of little consolation to the Padres.

Riordan launched a powerful second half comeback so complete that the Crusaders even spurted to an 11-point lead with two minutes left in the game. But the real damage came in the third quarter.

Ron Jackson's 17-foot jumper ten seconds into the period gave Serra a 38-25 lead. The Padres didn't score again until exactly 9:02 later — more than a minute into the fourth quarter — on a Jackson muscle shot.

In the meantime Riordan, forcing numerous Serra mistakes, determinedly had run off 20 straight points to take control.

"We just stopped executing," Serra coach Pete Newell. "Sure, they took some things away from us the second half, but it was no reason for us to start standing around like we did. We couldn't adjust to their adjustments. We lost our composure."

Riordan's key was 5-5 sparkplug Alton Byrd, a cool, quick wizard the Padres failed to handle at either end of the court. "He scared me more than anyone else they had," said Newell. "Jackson neutralized Love (6-5 Elmer, the Crusaders' star center) but Byrd killed us. He was a big factor."

"They don't have the driver's seat yet," added Newell, "But they sure beat everybody else to the bus. This was a big game for us and we beat ourselves. I hope we learned something."

Serra had three scorers in double figures, led by Jackson's game high of 15. John Caselli had 13 and Buzz Harnett 12. Riordan placed four in doubles, paced by Love's 14 and Byrd's 13, who also dished out ten assists.

Bulldogs in Tough After Opening Win

By FRED BAER
Post Correspondent

"It was great to win the conference opener. In the past (years) we were just trying to get one (win) before the league season was over."

So joked College of San Mateo coach Bobby Pounds after his title-contending Bulldogs turned back visiting Diablo Valley, 71-62, Friday night.

But there'll be no time to relax as CSM was to visit Golden Gate Conference favorite Chabot (16-1) Tuesday night in Hayward.

San Mateo had its troubles in the first half last night too, trailing the Vikings, 32-27. But after the intermission, a pair of jumpers by Tony Williams and a three-point play by Craig Nance deadlocked the score at 34-all.

It was close for the next four minutes until Nance's short jumper on an assist from Bob Wright broke a 42-42 tie with 14:33 left and started a six-point streak.

Diablo came back to knot the score twice more, however, before Wright followed his own jumper with ten minutes left to begin an eight-point streak that gave the Bulldogs command for good.

Nance, the 6-6 soph forward from San Francisco's Lincoln High, totaled 24 points, 15 in the second half, and grabbed 23 rebounds. "We just started hitting the boards in the second half," said Nance. "We were tightening up in the first half."

Pounds seconded that. "We were getting good shots but just overplaying. We finally settled down and moved around in the second half until we got great shots."

Pounds credited the play of guard Howard Trotter coming off the bench as a key factor in the victory. A usual starter, San Mateo High grad Tortter had missed the Skyline tournament two weeks ago with a strained back muscle incurred against state champion Compton in the Modesto tourney two weeks ago.

He hit on three jumpers before halftime and finished with ten points, providing a spark the CSM offense had been missing of late.

During the final five minutes, Pounds pulled the 'Dogs out of their 1-3-1 offense vs the zone and into a stalling wave, which drew Viking fouls.

But Diablo also took advantage of a couple of CSM turnovers and the outside shooting of Barry Maynard to draw within four points at 66-62 with 1:23 left to go. Trotter's fast break lay-up and a Viking turnover let the Bulldogs have some breathing room for the final 45 seconds.

Long Yardage

Bernie Oliver was born with third and long yardage. Which in civilian talk means born black, poor (two factors which are often synonymous) and short.

Had he been born white, middle-class and tall (with no athletic ability), he would probably now be trying to educate blacks in the ghetto, instead of trying to educate whites in suberbia.

Oliver is currently the only black and first permanent black teacher at Terra Nova High School, and one of the relatively few permanent black teachers in the Jefferson Union High School District.

He arrived at TN last year straight from a Stanford Masters degree and an internship at Aragon High School because the Jefferson District quite frankly told him that they needed an outstanding black teacher at Terra Nova, and because he felt that the Terra Nova physical education program is "a lot better" than those of other schools that had offered him jobs.

The former Hayward State Little All-American running back teaches physical education, is an assistant in both varsity football and track, and presides over a Black Experience class which he conceived, deisgned and implemented.

Thus, Bernie Oliver, one of 15 children of a Yuba City, "junker," seems to have come a long way for a 24-year-old.

BUT HE ISN'T satisfied. "I am an assistant everywhere," he recently told Dennice Riewerts, a reporter for the student news-magazine, Tiger Tales. He wants to be a head coach, he wants to make decisions, and he wants to someday do it all at the college level.

Oliver doesn't come out and say it, but the impression is that he's frustrated because there are some who see his ambition as a manifestation of his blackness, rather than as the normal drive of any young man who wants to reach at the top of his profession.

As Oliver told the Tiger Tales reporter, "I am black and I know it and black and I show it, too. I am black, that's obvious. You can tell by the way I talk I am black. You can tell by my mind I am black. In anything I do I am black." But that, to Oliver, is all obvious, and doesn't necessarily make a crusader, nor a living symbol around which campus liberals may conveniently rally.

Nor, on the other hand, does Oliver shirk his responsibility as the only black teacher on an almost totally white campus. He did, after all, push for the Black Experience class, and makes frequent guest appearances in other classes throughout the school on his own time. But he never tries to make a big deal of his being a veritable Black Horatio at the Bridge. He talks straight to the white kids, neither laying on a thick coat of martyrdom nor pulling punches in informing them of their racism, as unwanted or unintended as it may be.

"I try to let them (the students) know they don't have to be sensitive in a relationship with a black. I want them to be able to deal with it and not be uptight about it."

OLIVER REFUSES to go around bleating racism, and is, in fact, pleased by teacher acceptance of him, although he estimates that three-quarters of the faculty are racist, whether they realize it or not. He feels, however, that they are generally "decent" people, and that the kids are "cool." He in short doesn't feel threatened by whatever racism exists at Terra Nova. But, again, though he doesn't say it, the underlying implication is always there that if he says things, like he did to Miss Riewerts, "I think I am qualified now to be like, department head," that people think he is being an Uppity Nigger, whereas in fact he's merely being a confident, ambitious young professional.

When one is born and raised in Oliver's circumstances, if he doesn't nurture self-confidence, he can bury himself.

"My father, Joe, was a 'junker' and later he worked for the school department — still does — and I don't think he's ever made more than $400-$500 a month. And my mother, she didn't work. She stayed home and took care of the house and the kids. In fact, we would have never had a house to live in if an aunt hadn't have died and left us one.

"So us kids, we had to work like hell, picking peaches with the Braceros, and things like that."

BETWEEN PICKING peaches, Oliver attended Yuba City High, where he stood out in football and as a sprinter on the track team. His parents insisted on a higher education (with one exception, all of the Oliver children — Bernie's somewhere in the middle chronologically — have attended, are attending or will go to college), so he hustled his quick, sturdy legs to Hayward State, where he again stood out as a sprinter and starred — to say the least — as a running back. During his four-year varsity football career, he broke school rushing and scoring records and retired in 1970 as the seventh best rusher in college division history with 4,135 yards. (When recently informed that he is now "only" tenth, he shook his head and mumbled something about fleeting fame.) All that, and he had high grades, too, in his education major, history minor academic program.

If any man had a right to feel confident, it was Oliver. But then his fortunes began to reverse. He was told "unofficially" that he was to be chosen for the East-West Shrine game, which is not only an honor, but is also a prime showcase for the pro scouts. But he wasn't, the "unofficial" reason being that because it is a pass-oriented game, the West had all the runners it needed, and that at 5-9, Oliver was considered too short to be of help as a pass receiver.

Still, Pappy Waldorf, chief 49er scout, let it be known to Oliver, "unofficially," that there was no way he wouldn't be chosen in the draft by SOMEBODY. So Oliver waited around his room all the day of the draft, "instead of doing something constructive, like going out and drinking beer," and never got that phone call.

STILL CONFIDENT, he wrote to just about every team in professional football asking for a tryout. All replies, in effect, told him he was too small.

At 5-9, 180, Oliver didn't feel he was too small. He could name running backs in pro football who have made it at that size, and defensive backs who have made it with smaller dimensions. But he refused to look back. There being no academic restrictions in size at Stanford — save perhaps in intellect — Oliver accepted a special grant to study for his Master's degree in Education on the Farm, which he polished off in one year. Then came Aragon, and then Terra Nova.

While Oliver has no serious complaints about Terra Nova, he makes it plain that it isn't going to be his last stop educationally, that no school will be his last stop until he becomes a head coach. But even then, Oliver is no wild-eyed crusader.

Warrior Booster Club Awards SSF Athletes

The Warrior Booster Club of South San Francisco High School held its annual awards banquet for members of the C & D Basketball, Cross Country and Water Polo teams Dec. 2 and merit certificates and awards were presented.

Guests were welcomed and introductions made by President Verle Fairbanks. The invocation was given by Steve Erickson, a member of the Cross Country team. Dinner was prepared by members of the Booster Club and served by girls of the high school. Cross Country Coach Pete Giachetti was program chairman, and Tony Casillas, a former student now a coach in the East Bay, was master of ceremonies.

Coach Dick Drake presented achievement certificates to the following members of the C Basketball team: Dave Cotter (All League), Tony Cussary, Frank Edson (second team All League), Larry Garibaldi, William Henderson, Falau Hunkin, James Mullens, Dwayne Ozenne and Eugene Varni. Coach Drake was presented with a gift of appreciation by the team.

Coach Gene Mullin presented achievement certificates to the following members of the D Basketball team: Jim Andrews (second team All League), Steve Cox, Rich Duran, Tony Gutierrez, Keith Petiti, Kristine Rojas and manager John Heise. Coach Mullin was presented with a gift of appreciation by the team. The team also presented a bouquet to their team member Kristine Rojas, first girl to be an active C Basketball team member.

The Cross Country team was also awarded and Coach Pete Giachetti presented certificates to the following members: Dennis Anderson, Russ Biahchi, Thomas Bildhauer, Steve Erickson, Paul Ferreira, Tom Fraysse, Sam Goss (third in league, fifth in region, qualified for section), Walter Husu, Mike Jackson, Steve Ludewig, Bob Ranuio, Steve Rogers, Gary Sassman, Ken Ibarra (All League, tenth league finals), Brian Jennings (fifth league finals), Ron Thompson, Victor Torres and Dan Jimenez.

Coach Giachetti was presented with a gift of appreciation by the team. A special coach's award for Outstanding Cross Country Runner was presented by Coach Giachetti to senior Sam Goss.

Coach Cliff Sansot then presented achievement awards to the following members of the varsity and sophomore water polo teams: Varsity—Rolf Athern, Steve Bell, Paul Biondi, Bruce Boone, Jeff Conway, Jerry Ferguson, Karen Johanson (manager), Mike Luke, Dave Stevenson, Dan Anderson, Jim Bell, Frank Caracciolo, Mark Gradney, Rita Harrington (manager), Ray Marazzi, Bill Minshall, Dave Mirales, Frank Mirales, Andy Olson, Bob Osborne, Ron Richman and Wes Sabin. Sophomores — Jan Bishop (manager), Jeff Calhoun, Dennis Clarke, Marc Drewis, Rod Halseth, Brent Jenkins, Paul Mantor, Alan Richterman, Mark Rice, Kevin Tong and Mike Voightlander. The team presented bouquets to Jan Bishop, Rita Harrington and Karen Johanson for their work as managers of the sophomore and varsity teams. They also presented Coach Sansot with a gift of appreciation.

Booster Club senior trophies were presented by the parents to: Dave Cotter, Tony Cussary, Dwayne Ozenne, Tom Fraysse, San Goss, Walter Husu, Rolf Athearn, Steve Bell, Paul Biondi, Bruce Boone, Jeff Conway, Jerry Ferguson, Mike Luke, Dave Stevenson and Karen Johanson, first girl to earn a Booster Club senior trophy.

NPL Welcomes 'Safe' Play

By JERRY LITTRELL
Post Correspondent

Smugly back in the womb-like confines of their mother league, North Peninsula League teams swung into the first hectic week Monday.

The NPL fared poorly in practice season play. But things immediately started looking up when the teams began to play each other, instead of foreigners.

In opening game action South San Francisco beat Serramonte 66-65, Westmoor downed Jefferson 66-50, Terra Nova knocked off Half Moon Bay 65-53 and El Camino beat Oceana 57-41.

Monday's four winners will be narrowed to two immediately today when El Camino travels to Westmoor and South San Francisco visits Terra Nova.

The four losers Monday, naturally, pair off, with Oceana at Serramonte and Half Moon Bay at Jefferson. All games are slated for 3:15 p.m. It's guaranteed to be a balanced standing by day's end.

El Camino 57, Oceana 41

A game that was billed as the battle between the top league contenders a month ago proved to be a little less as El Camino surprisingly, easily handled Oceana.

Camino center Steve Kennedy was a dominating factor in the game for the Colts, controlling both boards and scoring 19 points. Guard Mike Jiggetts chipped in another 16. Oceana managed to score only 13 points in the first half. Camino doubled that, putting the game out of reach early.

SSF 66, Serramonte 55

Serramonte shote its wad in the first half (offensively speaking) before succumbing to visiting South San Francisco, 66-55 in a rematch of last year's conference co-champions.

The Regents, behind forward Pete Jurand's 14 first half points, led by as much as seven until the final three minutes of the second quarter. South City rallied behind guard John McKeon's playmaking. His 24-tooter at the halftime buzzer tied the game, 30-all.

South City exploded in the third quarter for one of the few times this year and gunned up to a 12-point lead before the period ended.

Westmoor 66, Jefferson 50

Sophomore Jerry McNeil's shot-blocking and center Maurice Pittman's rebounding and scoring propelled Westmoor to a victory over shorthanded Jefferson. Jeff coach Mic Kelly was missing two starters, and Westmoor took advantage of the Indian plight by gaining as much as a 20-point lead in the first half.

Terra Nova 65, HMB 53

A 25-point second quarter outburst by Terra Nova carried the visiting Tigers to the win. That second quarter spurt carried over into the third period as Terra Nova piled seven more points on its lead and went up to as much as 18.

Ski Tips

By Don Cappa

1. When driving in ski country always take tire chains with you. The California Highway Patrol will advise when chain control is in effect. There are usually youths at the chain control points who will install the chains without charge.

2. To facilitate turning while skiing make sure skis slide free and do not stick to the snow. Use wax to keep skis slick. The following wax is recommended: Red Wax for fresh, dry powder snow; Silver Wax for wet snow, and Yellow Wax for fresh wet snow.

3. Never travel to ski country without prior reservations. A dollar spent for a long distance call to secure lodgings could save aggravation looking for a room on a cold winter night.

4. Beginning skiers should never venture a ski slope without first taking ski instruction. Ski school is the best investment a skier can make.

Le Pacini Long Yardage

"Look, I'm no hero. A recruiter from a school in Chicago offered me a job, and the beginning money was unbelievable. And then after we talked a while, I discovered that the reason why the money was so good is that it's hazard pay, because there's something like half a dozen homicides a year at that particular school. No way, man."

WOULD HE ACCEPT a head coaching job in the Deep South?

"Only if it were at the college level," says Oliver.

If Bernie Oliver, then, is no hero, nor necessarily a crusader, what does he stand for as the lone black face among the faculty of 80 in white suburbia?

That can perhaps best be summed up by a recent vignette in the teachers' lunchroom.

Oliver, with a plate of fried chicken, was making his way toward a table when he was intercepted by a wise-cracking teacher who whispered in Oliver's ear, "Hey Bernie, what's with the lunch selection. I thought you were trying to break the stereotype?"

Oliver, laughing heartily and genuinely, replied, "But man, I really do like fried chicken."

Paper Airplane Competition Set Jan. 26

The South San Francisco Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring the First Annual Paper Airplane Competition to be held Jan. 26 at South San Francisco High School men's gym.

There are three resident classifications: Junior Division (10 and under), Senior Division (11 through 17), and Adults. They will compete in the following categories: duration aloft, aerobatics, distance flown and design.

A screening board will review each entry at registration to see if it meets the spirit of a paper airplane contest.

Registration for the event will be Jan. 21 through Jan. 25, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Magnolia Recreation Center. Late registration, however, will be taken Jan. 26 from 9-11 a.m. at South San Francisco High School men's gym.

Menlo Boat At Palace

Sailboats of every size and shape will be exhibited in the 32nd annual San Francisco Sports and Boat Show which runs Jan. 11-20 at the Daly City Cow Palace.

The largest sailboat will be Columbia's 45-footer, a luxury model with an exterior trim of solid teak. The smallest and most unusual will be the Windsurfer exhibited by Glenn Taylor of Bay Surf Windsurfers in Menlo Park.

This new craft looks like a surfboard with a sail and under the right conditions can reach a speed of 20 knots. Sailing a Windsurfer is different from sailing a boat and it takes some dunking to learn. The sail is held upright and manipulated by means of a wishbone boom.

Redwood City Feud Steams Up

The Redwood City feud that started when a planning commissioner and the mayor rhetorically squared off has gained steam with a councilman indirectly scolding two of his colleagues.

Veteran Councilman William C. Rhodes took issue with Mayor Paul C. Keckley and Vice Mayor Mary W. Henderson for criticizing the method of selection of planning commissioners.

Mrs. Henderson called the method political. The councilmen do not interview potential candidates.

"While the method isn't perfect, I am satisfied with it because I don't think we would have any better qualified commissioners than we have right now," Rhodes said.

Redwood City councilmen make turns "nominating" commissioners, which generally are unanimously ratified.

After Planning Commissioner William Price leveled blasts against portions of the city's housing plan, which was adopted 4 to 3 without the "action" portions by the Planning Commission, Keckley charged that the commission had "abrogated" their responsibility. "They just did not do their job, but I guess that's not their fault because we appointed them," the mayor said.

Rhodes then defended the commission. "I see no reason why any councilman should publicly criticize the commission or individual commissioners for a decision with which that councilman might happen to disagree," he said.

Rhodes also questioned why the sudden apparent disenchantment with the Planning Commission.

"When it denied the rezoning to allow the Longs Shopping Center, the City Council unanimously reversed their decision and allowed it to be developed, but I didn't hear one single criticism of the Planning Commission by any council members," Rhodes said.

The feud has raised speculation that a wide-open election for three expiring Redwood City council seats could develop in April.

Mrs. Henderson, Keckley and Rhodes are up for reelection. Keckley is the only unannounced incumbent.

Ask Study on Building 'Sprawl'

It isn't so much a problem of how high a building is in San Mateo, but how far it sprawls over the land creating a situation such as now exists on top of the exclusive Mounds subdivision.

The San Mateo Planning Commission, represented by Community Development Director Richard Coleman, submitted a request before the City Council in study session last week to ask for a special citizens' study committee on the subject.

Councilman John J. Murray questioned the necessity.

His colleagues in general agreed.

Mayor Floyd Welch said his concern is not so much the height of office or apartment building in the proper location but the necessity of having legal tools to preclude the Mounds situation.

At the time the developer offered two 10-story towers. Property owners in the area raised an outcry of opposition. The council conceded to the protest. The result has been what has been called a five-story "monstrosity," though condominiums are being sold at the rate of from $85,000 to some $125,000 per unit.

After discussing the need for a special citizens' study committee the council suggested the Planning Commission itself should take on the task of setting forth some legal guidelines.

The commission itself was divided on the need of having a special committee undertake the study. Councilman Murray noted.

Councilwoman Jane Baker said if such a citizens' study were undertaken it should be expedited.

Some discussion focussed on the frequently criticized high-rise office building at Twenty-Second Avenue and El Camino Real. However, it was noted the area generally is destined for a future redevelopment, and the high price of land inevitably will force construction skyward with the retention of as much open space surrounding such a building as is possible.

Councilmen indicated a position that given alternatives height can be preferrable to a sprawling land-absorbing structure.

Resources Center Gaining in Use

Requests for the unique educational service provided by the San Mateo Education Resources Center (SMERC) has more than doubled in some categories, it was reported to the county Board of Education Wednesday by Frank Mattas, director of the center for the County Schools Department.

The first such center in the United States, SMERC has been in operation for the past five years, providing information compiled through the U.S. Education Research Information Center (ERIC) to subscribing school districts and colleges in California and Arizona.

Information obtained from various sources throughout the country by ERIC is supplied to SMERC where it is microfilmed and stored at the County School Department in Redwood City.

When a subscribing agency desires information on a certain educational topic, the request is fed via an electronics system into a computer maintained by Westinghouse Corporation in Sunnyvale.

After the desired information is obtained from the "microfiche" file (each microfiche contains 99 pages of information on a 4-by-7-in. card.), it is supplied to the subscriber, either on microfilm, photocopy, hardcopy or computer printouts.

Although San Mateo County has the first such system in the country, other school districts throughout the nation are in the process of starting similar systems, according to Myron Schussman, assistant county schools superintendent.

Last summer, SMERC trained a staff from the Massachusetts Department of Education in the program procedures.

The San Mateo County program entails a cost of $400,000 a year. Of the amount, $100,000 is tax support for services to school districts in the county, with the balance coming from a charge of 12 cents per pupil per year for out-of-county subscribers.

Mattas reported that the number of searches by SMERC during November, 1973, totaled 560, as compared to 358 for the same month of 1972, primarily because Orange County, which was not on the program in 1972, joined and made 201 requests for information.

Sentenced In Melee

A 23-year-old Redwood City mechanic arrested last summer after a wild melee in LaHonda last week was sentenced to 100 hours of public service.

The defendant, Jerome Taylor, also was given a suspended 90-day county jail sentence by Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan.

If he breaks the law while on probation for two years, Taylor could go to jail, the judge ruled.

Taylor pleaded guilty to malicious mischief and disturbing the peace stemming from an incident July 9 during which one young man was cut with a knife and two of the victims' motorcycles were tossed over a 20-foot embankment into a creekbed.

A second defendant, George Villalba, 24, of San Jose, failed to appear for court proceedings last fall. Probation Officer Arnie W. Peters said a bench warrant has been issued for his arrest. The altercation occurred near Apple Jack's bar.

BELMONT

SAVE $198 MO.

Do you work in the City? Why drive to work and spend dollars per day on parking and gas (if you can get any)? Why suffer the wear and tear of the 55 MPH crawl on a crowded freeway?

You can enjoy quiet, cosmopolitan charm in huge 1, 2 or 3-BR. apts. Just a 7-minute walk to the Belmont train station — or even less to fine shops and restaurants. Besides the comfort of a tree-shrouded courtyard, dishwashers, pool, party room and more for as low as $180. You can save up to $198/mo. in commuter costs alone!
